ENGLISH POLITICS.

Gladstone Still Being Scored for His Speech.

His Views on the Rebellion Recalled.

The Prince of Wales to Have An Organ.

He Don't Like the Tone of the Royal Press.

The Streets of Rome Filled With Excited People—Cries Against the Pilgrims and the Pope—General Foreign News.

London, Oct. 5.—The tory speakers and newspapers continue their rabid comments on Mr. Gladstone's New Castle speech, and still make, as their most salient point, the fact that he once advocated the cause of the southern confederacy. Mr. Russell, the well-known Irish unionist, is quoted as saying:

"Mr. Gladstone is no doubt as sincere now in advocating the disunion for Great Britain and Ireland as he was advocating disunion for America, and he is just as incapable of seeing the consequences now of what he advocates as he was in the case of the American north and south.

"He is perfectly willing to place at the mercy of the Irish disunion majority the loyal minority that have always been faithful to Great Britain.

"What he means by saying that it is now a question of dealing with the Irish people, nobody can understand but himself. It has never been anything else, and the Irish people to-day would be content and prosperous but for the utterances of men like Mr. Gladstone."

Mr. Russell said that Mr. Gladstone had now taken disunion for his personal policy, and wished to cram it down the throats of both Liberals and Tories.

To Rival the Times.

The Tories are to have another newspaper. Mr. J. Blundell Maple, M. P., and Lord Radnor are credited with the ambition to start a Tory three-penny daily, as a rival of the Times.

The price would prevent the new paper from making any headway with the masses, who do not care to pay more than one penny for a daily newspaper, so that the new Tory daily, if started, will have to look for circulation among the wealthy and well-to-do.

Blundell Maple is about 44 years of age, and a son of a wealthy dealer in furniture. He has been making considerable noise in various directions.

Earl Radnor is the treasurer of her majesty's household, but it is not likely that any of her majesty's money will go into the newspaper enterprise.

It is whispered, however, that Radnor is an intimate friend of the Prince of Wales, and that the prince may be anxious for an organ, especially as he is known not to have been pleased with the comments of the Times on the Wilson-Cumming trial

Politics and Labor

The tories view with considerable satisfaction the organization, on Sunday, of a political labor association, for the purpose of securing the election of labor candidates. It is considered that the new association will embarrass the liberals, by making more demands than the liberal party can agree to, and that in this way, many votes will be gained for the conservatives. How this will turn out remains to be seen.

Late Earl of Portsmouth.

The late earl of Portsmouth was a fair representative of the titled aristocracy, leading a quiet life, but no use to anybody but himself.

He was descended from one of the regicide judges who, after the restoration of Charles II., was hauled around the city with a halter around his neck, and then imprisoned for life.

From this ancestor probably the earl inherited his Whig principles, and transmitted them to his son, who has sat for about ten years in parliament. The son is a prig in manners, but has some ability.

The death of the earl is said to have been caused by a fit of temper in connection with his son-in-law.

The Pope and the People.

A Rome dispatch says that the streets were filled to-day by people shouting for the king, mingled with cries against the pilgrims and the pope. The day passed off, however, without any violence.

In Naples similar scenes were enacted.

In Milan the people threatened violence to some foreigners who refused to join in the expressions of loyalty, and in Florence the French residents thought it prudent to remain indoors.

Everywhere the greatest devotion was expressed to the royal family and the cause of Italian unity.

DEATH IN THE FLAMES.

Four More Victims in New York This Morning.

The Fire Started in the Woodshed and Climbed Up the Elevator to the Fifth Floor.

New York, Oct. 5.—A fire occurred in the five-story tenement house at the corner of Hudson and Dominick streets shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. All the occupants except four persons were rescued with difficulty.

Wm. Murphy, his wife and two step children occupied the fifth floor. Mrs. Murphy climbed through the trap door to the roof, her clothing being in flames. There she burned slowly to death. Her charred corpse was found on the roof by the firemen.

Josephine Ryan, a five year old child, who was visiting the Murphy family, was burned to death in her bed.

Two step children of the Murphy's, Martin and John Toughey, were severely burned, and John died.

Katie Dunn, aged 20, who boarded with the Murphy's, was found in her bed asphyxiated by smoke.

John Toughey died shortly after being taken to the hospital.

The fire started in a woodshed in the basement and quickly igniting the gas meters, the flames rushed up the elevator shaft to the top floor where the Murphy's lived.

RAILROAD EXTENSION.

Findlay, Oct. 5.—(Special)—A committee of prominent business men and manufacturers of North Baltimore have been here conferring with Jos. Ramsey, Jr., president of the Findlay Belt Line railroad now building, with a view of having the line extended to their city, thus giving them a connecting link with Findlay.

THE CLEVELAND BABY.

Of Course Everybody Wants to See It.

New York, Oct. 5.—Great crowds of curious people walked past and sauntered around the home of ex-President Cleveland yesterday, drawn there by the statement that a baby had been born in the house the previous day.

The most definite description of the child is to the effect that the baby has light hazel eyes, and that there are indications that she will be a brunette. There is no doubt whatever that she will have a dimple, if all the statements of those who have seen her are to be believed, because they all agree on that point. They also agree that she will be a beauty—not as great a beauty as her mother possibly, but still a beauty.

The baby's outfit of wearing apparel is said to be a dream of tasteful elegance and millinery skill. She will have no use for these pretty things of silk and satin and velvet for some time to come, but when she does make her appearance in public she is likely to take the shine off most of the "babies on the block."

GERMAN SOLDIERS.

Military Manoeuvres Attracting Much Attention.

The Heavy Fortress Guns Doing Splendid Work—To Reduce the Term of Service.

London, Oct. 5.—The German artillery manœuvres, which have been in progress at Juterbock, about twenty miles to the south of Berlin, have been attended by Count Schlieffen, chief of the general staff, and 250 staff officers, the regiments of artillery guards and four other regiments.

A fort built on the shooting range eight years ago was made use of and other works were erected for a test of the guns.

A large number of fortress guns were tried for the first time, the result being so satisfactory as to surprise the most experienced artillery officers.

A feature of the occasion was the use of strong farm horses to draw cannon about the field instead of the transport horses used last year, and which were found too weak even for the lighter guns then employed.

The artillery manœuvres are considered by the kaiser as hardly less important than those of the cavalry, and an elaborate report of the proceedings is being prepared for imperial information.

The proposition to reduce the term of full military service to two years has been received with favor by a portion of the German press and is known to be favorably regarded by the kaiser. The very vastness and expense of the German military system, however, makes it difficult if not impossible to effect the desired change, which would be a great relief to the people. Some high military authorities claim that it would impair the military vigor of the empire, while others have a contrary opinion.

EXPLOSION IN CHICAGO.

A Tug's Boiler Bursts in the Draw of a Bridge.

A Number of Persons Killed and Injured—Great Excitement for a Few Minutes.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—A boiler explosion aboard the steam tug C. W. Parker killed seven persons and seriously injured many others in the neighborhood of Asher avenue bridge on the south branch of the river about 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The tug C. W. arker, in company with three other tugs, was engaged in attempting to tow the coal steamer H. S. Pickans out of the draw of the bridge when the explosion occurred. Three of the killed were employes of the tug and their bodies have not yet been recovered. The other persons killed were standing on the river banks to which a number of spectators had been drawn to witness the removal of the steamer, which arrived Saturday from Buffalo with a cargo of coal.

The vessel had round aground in the draw and four tugs were putting forth every effort to move it, when one of them, the C. W. Parker, exploded. The list of killed and wounded so far as can be ascertained at this hour is as follows:

Killed—Jas. B. Carter, captain of the tug C. W. Parker; John C. Moore, engineer of C. W. Parker; Samuel Armstrong, of Manistee, cook of the C. W. Parker; unknown man, killed by fragments of boiler standing at east end of Asher avenue bridge; Mrs. Mary Rice, of 3031 Asher avenue; Barbara Rice, her 16-year old daughter; Samuel Sawyer, laborer, 3425 Blume street.

Wounded—Joseph Cullen, fireman of C. W. Parker, will probably die; Henry Bell, deck hand, badly scalded; Charles Kirten, ellctnz, wounded by missiles; Frank Wagner, arm broken; Joseph Bomorazk, skull fractured, may die; Geo. Juell, captain of tug Van Schaack, leg and back hurt; Louis De Mag, deck hand, Van Schaack, back sprained; Jas. Cunniingham, cook, Van Schaack, scalp wounds.

TALKING ON THE TARIFF.

Captain Bell Wakes the Echoes in Northwestern Ohio.

Wauseon, Oct. 5.—(Special)—Capt. J. Bell, president of the New York Tariff Reform club, addressed a large crowd at the court house Saturday evening, it being the opening gun of the campaign.

The coming senator from this district, Hon. J. W. Canary, was to have been present, but was not, owing to his having missed connections in Toledo. For nearly two hours this polished gentleman held his audience, composed mainly of farmers and laborers. His address was eloquent and refined, while the arguments and truths presented by this great student of economic principles were irrefutable.

He clearly demonstrated that the McKinley bill "robs the cottage to adorn the palace," that its purpose is to "protect the rich and impoverish the poor." Music was furnished by the band.

HELD TO BE ILLEGAL.

Important Decision for Grain Speculators.

Dealing in Futures Is Against the Law, Says the Supreme Court of Minnesota.

St. Paul, Oct. 5.—The supreme court of Minnesota has reversed the decision of the lower courts and filed a decision finding the dealing in grain futures illegal and void.

The court finds as follows: "Contracts for the sale and delivery of grain or other commodities to be delivered at a future day are not per se unlawful where parties in good faith intend to perform them according to their terms.

"But contracts in form for a future delivery, not intended to represent actual transactions, but merely to pay and receive the difference between the agreed price and the market price at a future day, are in the nature of wagers on the future price of the commodity, and void. The order of the lower court is reversed."

BLAIR WILL GO TO CHINA.

How Mr. Ho Once Blocked the Game.

An Interpeter in League With the British.

Interesting Exposure of the Double Dealing of a Moon-Eyed Attache at the National Capitol.

New York, Oct. 5. — Newspaper reports from Washington have recently connected the name of ex-Senator Henry W. Blair of New Hampshire with the Chilian mission as a probable successor to Patric Egan, and more lately with the pension commissionership as a successor to Green B. Raum. It seems to be generally taken for granted that the Chinese mission, to which he was nominated by President Harrison and confirmed by the senate, is no longer within the horizon of his hopes by reason of the refusal of the Imperial government at Pekin to receive Mr. Blair as the representative of this republic.

Unless, however, those who should be thoroughly well informed upon the subject are entirely mistaken, Mr. Blair's renomination as minister to China is near at hand, and the Chinese government will make no opposition to his reception. The probability of this condition of affairs has been brought about by the discover of the machinations of the Chinese interpreter at Washington, Mr. Ho, and the revelation of the fact that he is acting in this country as an agent of the British government, with a view of preventing amicable commercial relations between the United States and China. There is an interesting story back of all this.

Mr. Ho is a perfect picture of craftiness. In Washington he was a type of demure humility, basking humbly in the sunshine of the presence of his master, the Chinese minister. His raiment was befitting a mere clerk engaged at a salary of $100 per month. The minister deemed him invaluable, as he is the only man on his staff who can properly translate diplomatic documents and who is able to transfer communications from Mr. Blaine's department into the purest Mandarin Chinese.

In New York a few days ago Mr. Ho aggpeared to be a far different person. Imagine a man 50 years of age, short of figure and very fat, walking slowly along with stooped shoulders; a long braided queue hanging down between his shoulders; a very thin, black moustache; small, ferret-like eyes and an uncomely visage. Put atop his head a small black cap with a red button in the centre of its crown; dress him in a light blue silk blouse, yellow satin trousers tucked in the tops of white silk stockings, a skirt of old gold satin reaching just below the knees, a black silk jacket and Chinese shoes. There you have Mr. Ho when the eyes of his master are not upon him.

For many years the financial affairs of the Chinese minister, who is accredited not only to this country but to Peru and Spain as well, were conducted through the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking company, which is a distinctively British organization having its offices at 52 Wall street, in this city. The account is a very valuable one, involving not only large sums of money, but also giving the banking concern prestige with a certain class of customers.

Some time ago, through the inuence of Count Eugene de Mitkiewicz, this account was transferred to the North River bank. The chagrin of the British institution was beyond bounds, and shortly thereafter Mr. Ho, who it was discovered had been serving two masters, was forced to adopt such methods of reprisal that it required but very little effort to discover beyond all question of doubt that he had been and is now an agent in the employ of the British government.

Naturally one of the first objects of attack was Mitkiewicz, and suddenly some of the New York newspapers were induced to blossom forth not only with old stories affecting his character, but with new allegations of his dressing Chinese servants to represent the Chinese minister and thereby defraud gullible investors out of their money. Whatever may be said of Mitkiewicz's extravagances, it requires but the slightest investigation to refute any allegation as to his being a charlatan and an adventurer. The Russian legation can easily settle any questions as to his identity.

He comes of a most distinguished family. His eldest brother is councilor of state of the Russian empire, and is chief of the cabinet of political spirit. In other words, that famous and dreadfully mysterious organization known as the secret police of Russia is immediately under his control. At his summons, without legal process of any kind, the highest in the land must appear before him, and may be sent at once into exile. The charge that Mitkiewicz was obliged to have servants personate the Chinese minister would be laughable were it not so seriously malicious. As a matter of fact he occupies to-day the most friendly relationship with the Chinese legation and with the state department at Washington, and, despite the accusations which have been leveled against him, many of the leading capitalists of this city. As W. H. Johnstone, speaking of the "dressed-up servants" story, said: "How laughable it is to anyone acquainted with the facts! Mitkiewicz took me to the Chinese legation and presented me to the minister, and such was the effect of that introduction that the next day, to my astonishment, the minister and his suite, occupying four or five carriages, drove to the Hotel Chamberlin, where I was staying, and paid me a formal call.

But this was the least harm which Mr. Ho attempted. His control of the documents which leave the Chinese legation for Pekin, and his knowledge of what is wanted by the British government, has enabled him to bring about national issues. It is now openly asserted and is firmly believed and is personally admitted by the Chinese minister that it was Mr. Ho who was directly instrumental in causing the government at Pekin to object to Mr. Blair's nomination. There are also strong reasons for believing that he has materially aided the literary bureau controlled by the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking company in cooking foreign news to give the impression in this country that Americans are being mobbed in China and that men-of-war are needed in those waters.

All this is directly in the line of Great Britain's never-changing policy of preventing other nations from obtaining a foothold where it possesses almost a monopoly of the market. The matter finally assumed such a serious phase that Mr. Ho was placed under espionage, and last week, while he was here, his connection with the British spies in this country was indubitably demonstrated. Full presentation of the matter has been made to the Chinese government, and already more than a plain intimation has been received that in a very short time Mr. Blair will be declared to be persona gratia to the mighty Li Hung Chang, the Seven Princes and their moon-eyed master, the emperor of China.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The department of agriculture has issued the following:

Kentucky—Rain generally benefited tobacco and rendered the soil fit for plowing. Three-fourths of the tobacco is out and corn is fully matured. More rain is needed for fall pastures.

Ohio—An excellent crop of corn is in shock. Drouth very injurious to pastures and wheat; drying up wells and creeks. Water supply short in some towns and famine is feared unless rain comes soon.

Michigan—Conditions have been favorable for securing fall crops. The cutting of corn is nearly completed. Wheat seeding has been been benefited by well distributed rains.

Illinois—In sections where rain fell pastures and early sown wheat were improved. Seeding in northern and southern counties greatly retarded on account of drouth. Much corn is being cut.

Indiana—Rain is badly needed for wheat, pasturage and wells. Some corn harvested and marketed. Most of the fall wheat is sown and is growing well.

NORRIS UNDER ARREST,

A Well Known Detective Charged With Blackmail.

A Case With Very Sensational Features Will Have An Airing in the Ohio Courts.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—John T. Norris, a detective of almost national reputation, was arrested in the sheriff's office on a charge of blackmail preferred by a man whom he had been shadowing.

His accuser is John Snearly, alias Jack Forbes, who was for a time supposed to have been implicated in the robbery of Thomas Blackburn, a Missouri farmer, to the tune of $7,500.

It is alleged that Norris had Snearly arrested for the robbery, knowing him to be innocent. Farmer Blackburn failed to identify Snearly, and he was released from custody. Norris is also called upon to answer to a suit for $20,000 damages for malicious prosecution.

DIPHTHERIA EPIDEMIC.

Wauseon, Oct. 5.—(Special)—Diphtheria in a most malignant form is raging at Metamora, a village in the northeast part of the county. Three deaths occurred Friday, and 20 cases were reported up to Saturday last, on which day a counsel of doctors from neighboring places was called.

The purpose of such meeting was to ferret out and remove if possible the cause of the epidemic. Low water in the streams and wells and a very bad sanitary condition seems to be the solution of the problem.

FACTS FROM FINDLAY.

Newsy Gossip From the Brilliant City.

Hancock County Fair Promises to be a Grand Success—Miscellaneous Mention.

Findlay, O., Oct. 5.—(Special)—Probably the largest and most successful fair ever held in this county will be held this week, weather permitting, commencing to-morrow and continuing all week, on the new grounds of the Agricultural society, south of the city. The buildings are said to be the best in this section; new half mile track. Very large premiums have been offered in every department. Many special attractions and features will be given. The entries thus far are away ahead of past years.

POWDERLY ON THE RACK.

Eastern Knights of Labor Enter a Protest

Against His Doubling Up With Mat Quay.

A Circular Letter Addressed to the General Master Workmen by His People.

Pittsburg, Oct. 5.—A circular letter, numerously signed by Knights of Labor, will this week be addressed to General Master Workman Powderly, protesting against the deal made with Senator Quay for the labor vote. A copy of this letter fell into the hands of a newspaper man to-day. It says among other things:

"Through the disreputable deal of these two political hucksters, who are posing as apostles of the Knights of Labor organization, Mike Butler and Jim Wright, of Philadelphia, the friends of labor in Pennsylvania are in a serious dilemma. A division is likely to arise if the contention is maintained.

"Mr. Powderly had the opportunity of his life. When he accepted a place on the republican ticket, in compliance with the terms of a deal made between Boss Quay, Butler and Wright, he became a party to this suspicious transaction, and if he goes into the field to defend Messrs. Wright and Butler in their attempt to pervert the record of many members who participated in the proceedings of the last legislature; if he supports Messrs. Butler and Wright in their attempt to deliver the labor vote to the republican party this year, and in the deal which they have made to deliver the vote of the laboring people of Pennsylvania in the interest of the republican candidates for the legislature next year, with a view of returning Boss Quay to the United States senate, he will be open to the suspicion of all as a party to the transaction.

"Mr. Powderly can, by maintaining a dignified position and by asserting to the people of Pennsylvania that he desires a constitutional convention, that he is a candidate-at-large to that convention, and that he wishes the votes of all the people who are in favor of a convention and leaving his case rest upon that, invite the support of all citizens.

"Mr. Powderly, can you not see that you are being made a tool of by the selfish political labor hucksters who desire to accomplish their purposes, even at the expense of the organization which they are members of, and at the expense of your good name? What answer can you make to the laboring men of Pittsburg, if, by keeping up this contention, you destroy the organization?

"Will the cause of organized labor be benefited by the disreputable exhibition of selfishness and by the association of the leaders of organized labor with a boss in the republican party whose name is besmirched in every section of the United States as being a man who is without honor, without integrity, and who will spare no effort and neglect no means to accomplish success for the republican party; the friend of corporations and the godfather of monopoly? Everywhere throughout Pennsylvania organized labor awaits your decision."

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 5.—A shooting affray occurred between two members of Cappa's Seventh Regiment band, of New York, at their boarding house last night in which Oscar Joericke was shot by Andrew Joericke. Both were arrested.

Although of the same name, the victim and his assailant both claim that no relationship exists between them.

The men have been enemies for some time. According to the statement of Andrew Joericke, Oscar has been lying in wait for him.

Last night, he says, he went to Oscar's room to get a bottle of ink, when Oscar caught him by the throat and threw him to the floor. As he fell the Flobert rifle he was carrying exploded and the bullet struck Oscar.

He gives no explanation of why he was carrying a loaded rifle, but asserts that the shooting was accidental. Oscar says Andrew fired at him deliberately. It is feared the wounded man will die.

Two Young Men Wounded, One of Them Fatally, by Men Who Wanted Their Money.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 4.—Charles Sturgis and Edward O'Hara, two young single men, moulders by trade, living in Buffalo, started late Saturday night for Erie to spend Sunday. They took passage on a Lake Shore freight train for the purpose of saving their money, and when a short distance west of Dunkirk were attacked by tramps who demanded their money.

They resisted and Sturgis was shot through the abdomen and his companion, O'Hara, while attempting to rescue him, was frightfully stabbed in the back by one of the highwaymen.

O'Hara heroically, although weakened by loss of blood, carried his companion to a Nickel Plate train and brought him to the Hamot hospital in this city. Sturgis was baptized and has received the last rites of the Catholic church. He cannot possibly survive. The highwaymen escaped after they had robbed their victims. a gang of tramps have repeatedly attacked and driven train crews from their trains in that same locality.

WAR FEARED IN SAMOA.

Mataafa's Men Are Out for Trouble.

Europeans at Opia Fear a Massacre.

Monomo Men Have Burned the Homes of Deserters to Mallietoa—High Taxes Causes the Trouble.

Apia, Samoa, Sept. 16, via San Francisco, Oct. 5.—The outbreak among the natives against German rule in Samoa, which was foreshadowed in dispatches to the World several weeks ago, has already begun. So far it has been confined to the burning of a number of houses of natives who have declared themselves to be loyal to Malieto, but as Mataafa remains encamped at Malie, surrounded by 300 well armed men who proclaim him to be the king, the situation may become vastly more serious at any moment. Not a few of the European residents of Apia believe that a general massacre of the foreign population is not improbable.

The trouble arises from the deep and widespread dissatisfaction among the natives with the present administration of the government, which is almost exclusively in the hands of the Germans. If there is anything on earth that a Samoan despises and hates it is a German. This feeling of hatred has become intensified since the Berlin conference of 1888, which was intended to insure the autonomy of the islands, but which, in reality, only gave the Germans a firmer grasp upon the Samoan government.

The Germans, it will be remembered, seized Malietoa, the king, a few years ago, and carried him into exile, placing on the throne Tamassesse, who was prepared to do their bidding in all things. Then Mataafa, to whom Malieota had transferred the title of king during his exile, declared war on Tamassesse and the Germans. He was defeated, but the Berlin conference restored Malietoa to the throne, and Mataafa went into retirement at Malie, where he has since remained, surrounded by a large force of natives who declare him to be the rightful king. Malietoa, they say, has become only a tool of the Germans, just as was the case with Tamassesse.

Most of the followers of Mataafa are natives of the island of Monono. A few days ago some of the Monono men said that they intended to go to Mulinuu and declare allegiance to Malietoa, having been persuaded to take that step by German emissaries. As a result of this declaration, the Monono chiefs who remain faithful to Mataafa ordered the houses and belongings of the faithless natives to be torn down and burned. This was promptly done.

When the news reached here, United States Vice-Consul Blacklock and Baron Senft von Pilsach, president of the Municipal council, proceeded to Monono on the United States man-of-war Iroquois, Commander John J. Reed. The natives who had done the burning were arrested, tried and convicted and sentenced to six months' imprisonment. No attempt was made to disperse the armed force surrounding Mataafa at Malie.

The disaffected natives complain that the government, as represented by Malieton, is run altogether in the interest of the Germans. They say that the Germans have stolen a million acres of their best lands, which they are cultivating by slaves brought from the Solomon and Fiji islands. To support the German office-holders, the natives say, they are taxed beyond their power to pay, and in default more of their lands are being constantly seized. There is a capitation tax of $1 on all natives, of whatever age. The owner of a boat must pay $3 a year; of a horse or cow, $6 a year, and of a house, $10 a year, to pay the salaries of these office-holders. Most of the natives in the interior never owned a dollar in their lives. They live on the bountiful fruits of the soil, which are yielded up without even the labor of cultivation, around their homes. They have no way of earning money, and the only escape from the onerous burdens of taxation that appears open to them is to be secured by driving the Germans out of the island. It is this discontented faction that is led by Mataafa. What the result will be can only be determined after Mataafa perfects his plans for another rebellion.

Chief Justice Cedarkrantz, who has gone to Sydney, gives great dissatisfaction here. He has limited knowledge of the English language and cannot conduct supreme court cases or transact ordinary government business. He refuses to have anything to do with the governing country, and, although he has been nine months in Samoa, he has not framed a single law for the guidance of the Samoan magistrates, as he was expressly directed to do by the treaty.

He refuses to pay duty on liquors, etc., which he imported for his own use, and there is no appeal from his decision.

The municipal council is completely under the president's thumb. He sent all the funds to a bank at Sydney, and it is believed that he has deposited the money in his own name. Although information on the subject was asked a month ago by a taxpayer it is not forthcoming. He is about to take a government residence at Mulenuu to cost about $4,000. He called for bids for the jail without consulting the council, but the council refused to consent to this.

The Pennonin, reported lost with all hands several months ago, has been heard from. She was wrecked on one of the islands of the Marshall group on May 4. All on board escaped to the shore, and after much exposure and suffering reached Apia in safety, and left on the Monowall for San Francisco. The Pennonin was a total loss.

HUNTING FOR A CHARACTER.

A Father Trying to Whitewash His Son.

Raum Would Like to Give His Boy a Monopoly on All the Pension Business of the Land.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Green B. Raum is on another leave of absence to Chicago.

He has already been absent as pension commissioner about one-half of the time since his appointment.

That does not worry Mr. Raum. What he is most exercised about now is a coat of whitewash for his son, Green B., jr., who is trying to branch out as a pension attorney.

The scandal that still clings to the young sport is apt to hurt him in his new enterprise, and he looks to his father, the commissioner, to secure him a certificate of character. This is what Raum, sr., is now engaged about.

He has seen the president, and if he can get a clean bill of health from the white house he proposes to snap his fingers at the press of the country, both republican and democratic. He is working his "pull" for all it is worth, and that "pull" of his seems worth working.

Whispers come from high authority that when the president of the United States kneels down every night before retiring he adds a clause to his usual supplication, beseeching Providence to move the spirit of the pension commissioner to write a resignation.

When each succeeding day comes and goes and Raum remains to sign a voucher at the end of each month for 500, the chief executive is said to exclaim in a discreet whisper: "How long, oh Lord, how long?"

President Harrison has been deluded into the belief that Raum is a competent and energetic official, but the odorous atmosphere that has gathered about the pension office is too strong to be disregarded. Republicans of high standing who know what a burden Raum has become to the party with his unsavory record have pleaded with the president to have him removed. They know that the stories of his mismanagement are true. They also know that with regard to young Raum's misdoings the half has never been told. The republican press knows it, too.

President Harrison cannot help knowing that there is foundation for the scandals attached to the commissioner and his office, and yet he does not demand Raum's resignation. It is a very ticklish time for exposures. If Raum would of his own free will tender his resignation it would be accepted on five minutes' consideration, but with the elections pending in several states where republican money is absolutely necessary to victory, the president hesitates to make any discord by dismissing a high official.

LOADED AT BOTH ENDS.

Republicans Afraid to Tear Down the Ballot Law.

Still Figuring Over the Question of What to do With Judge Thompson's Petition.

Columbus, Oct. 5.—The republican managers, who secretly conspired to break down and destroy the wholesome influence of the Australian ballot law through an appeal to the supreme court, have become alarmed over the conditions developed since the preliminary move by Judge Thompson.

The electors of Ohio quietly submitted when a republican legislature refused to pass a law providing for an absolutely secret ballot, and patiently waited until the democrats came into power.

Then provision was made for a free and independent vote, giving the honest expression of the people, by the enactment of the election law, which the McKinley republicans now seek to destroy.

From all over the state the warnings have poured into the republican managers that any attempt to invalidate this law for political porposes would rebound on the originators of such a scheme.

This bar had the effect of calling a halt in the proceedings an the defects in Judge Thompson's petition have not been cured. Hence it is not legally before the courts. The delay is part of a prearranged plan among the republicans and they will occupy a couple of days probably in determining upon a course to pursue in reference to the matter. There is not a doubt but that they will destroy the law before the election unless prevented from so doing by the popular uprising likely to follow such a procedure.

COMMISSIONER TAYLOR'S

Third Annual Report Has Been Completed.

The Railroad Interests of the Country Discussed at Length—Paying the Debt to the Government.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The third annual report of Commissioner Taylor has been handed to the secretary of the interior. The report says of the railroad situation, that for the past year there has been an increase in the gross receipts but a falling off in net earnings, owing to increased competition. The earnings of the roads indebted to the government show a slight decrease over last year. The roads are paying into the treasury each year all the laws require them to pay.

Full detailed statements are given, showing the financial condition of the companies, the gross and net earnings, government requirements, amounts paid in and total amount of government debt. These statements show that the total gross receipts of the bonded roads, for the year for which settlements are made, were $28,045,287; net earnings, $3,068,695; government requirements, $1,740,085; paid in, $1,616,064.

There are accounts for transportation services rendered in the hands of the accounting officers of the treasury, largely in excess of the government requirement unsettled.

The total debts of the bonded roads up to Dec. 31, 1890, amounted to $112,512,613.

The increase in the debts of the bonded roads is not owing to the failure of the companies to comply with the laws. They pay yearly all the laws require them to pay. The trouble is that the percentages required by law to be paid do not create a sum equal to the interest the government has to pay on the subsidy bonds.

The commissioner indorses the policy of the Union Pacific in aiding the construction of branch lines, which shall be tributary to the main line. He says:

"It would be almost impossible to emphasize too strongly the value to the Union Pacific of its branch lines. It is alone through them that the operations of the main line, on which the government holds a lien, have been made practicable. Some of the branch lines may not be profitable to themselves, but as feeders to the main line they have a value which does not appear on their own balance sheets. The transcontinental business, which was large and lucrative a few years ago, is now divided among many competitors, and is almost insignificant as to amount and profit. It is the local business alone, most of which is contributed by the branch lines, that brings profit to the main line.

"Were it not for these feeders the Union Pacific would yield no net earnings whatever, and the property would not be worth the amount of its first mortgage bonds."

The commissioner urges very strongly and at considerable length the great necessity of some action being taken looking to a settlement between the bonded roads and the government.

He says: "If a harmonious and equitable adjustment is undertaken it should be made in accordance with simple, practical business prudence. The government has loaned its money and its credit and it is entitled to its pay. The debtor companies acknowledge their obligations and profess to be anxious to cancel them as fast as possible without embarrassing their business. Both parties desire a settlement, and by proper effort, it seems certain that an equitable one may be effected. With the government, the time of payment is of little consequence, but security is everything.

"I have little doubt of the ability of the principal bonded roads to eventually meet all their obligations to the government, but the sum of these debts is apparently beyond possibility of payment in money at their maturity.

"Some plan of refunding must be devised in order to give them time. The course of the government should be that which any practical man would pursue with a private debtor in a similar situation."

The commissioner recommends the appointment of a commission of not over three members to be persons in government employ to consider the situation, confer with the railroad companies and report their conclusions to congress.

SENT HIM BACK.

England's Wishes in the Case of Chong Sam Ignored.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The president has directed that Chong Sam, a Chinaman, be deported to China as the country "whence he came." Chong Sam, a Chinaman resident in Canada, entered the United States on July 1, 1891; was arrested at Port Huron, Mich., for being unlawfully in the United States, was tried and found guilty before U. S. Commissioner Harris and by him sentenced to be deported to China as the country "whence he came." In accordance with this decision Secretary Foster directed that Chong Sam be sent to San Francisco for deportation to China. Pending the carrying out of this order the British minister asked that action be deferred so that he could institute an investigation as to whether Chong Sam, being a resident of Canada, was not entitled to the protection of the British government.

As a result of this investigation the British minister asked that Chong Sam be pardoned.

This the president refuses and directs that he be returned to China as the country "whence he came."

CUBAN BLOOD WILL FLOW

Two Hot-Headed Spaniards Want to Fight,

And Judging From Appearances They Will.

A Rich New York Lodge's Name Has Been Brought Into a Very Sensational Affair.

New York, Oct. 5.—Joseph Tarafa, son of one of the wealthiest men in Cuba, left for his home on a Ward line steamer. Before going he swore vengeance against Francisco Pdarazuza, a Cuban government agent.

Tarafa and Pdarazaza have been quarreling ever since they came to this country. Pdarazaza is about 36 years old. He is married and has a lovely wife and a little boy and girl. Tarafa is a young man 24 years old.

The Tarafa and Pdarazaza families have been very intimate and friendly for years. Both families look back to grand old Spain as their mother country and trace long lines of honorable and blueblooded ancestors.

Pdarazaza is editor and owner of the Havana Gazette. He does not speak English, so when he decided to come to the United States to purchase a steamship for a line in which he is interested, he arranged with young Tarafa to act as his secretary and interpreter. Tarafa has a splendid education, secured at the leading universities of the world.

He speaks English, Spanish, German, French, and Italian. Before leaving for home Tarafa told his troubles to a reporter. He said: "My blood boils with indignation when I think how I have been insulted, and the name of a fair American lady has been slandered by this despicable cur."

"What is the name of this American lady you refer to, Mr. Tarafa? Do you not fear trouble from her husband?"

"I cannot tell you her name—I will not. If the husband finds either one of us he will kill us sure. He is very wealthy and he adores his wife. Nothing but Pdarazaza's life can atone for the insults he gave in connecting my name with hers in the manner he did.

"I was to have received $10 a day and all expenses paid, but Pdarazaza has not paid me a cent. I don't care about that, though. It makes me mad only in connection with other things. Pdarazaza could not get a steamship that suited him here in New York. I went to Oswego, to Boston, to Philadelphia, to Baltimore and to New Orleans in my search for a steamer that would answer his purpose.

"On all these trips I never got a cent from Pdarazaza. I used my own money. At New Orleans I secured the ship. Pdarazaza gave me his word of honor that he would pay $5,000 as an earnest, but the scoundrel—the infamous scoundrel—he broke all his promises and placed me in the light of an adventurer.

"After he had humiliated me to his heart's content, he made the necessary payment and I returned to New York. He then added insult to injury by dragging the fair name of an American lady—a mutual friend—into the mire of disgrace. I will kill him just as sure as he returns to Cuba. Down on our island if a man kills another on the field of honor people don't say a word, and that is the reason we don't fight the duel in the United States."

Pdarazaza was found on board his steamship, the Ontario, at the Atlantic docks in Brooklyn. Through an interpreter Pdarazaza said that Tarafa had completely lost his head over a fancied insult.

"I never mentioned this lady's name in a wrongful manner," said he. "I never insult women. She was the wife of a very rich man who idolized her. I did not think it proper for anyone to come between man and wife, so when I discovered that Tarafa was paying her too marked attention I spoke to him rather sharply.

"I have a wife and children myself, and I would kill the man whoever tried to wrong me. Tarafa is a younger man than I am. His father told me to care for him in a fatherly way and not to let him spend too much money.

"I did not advance him money because I knew his father had supplied him plentifully. His father is one of Cuba's richest and most honored men and one of my best friends. His son is young and hotheaded."

"Will you fight a duel?"

"Yes, for I, too, have been insulted, and it shall be as he says."

"What weapons do you prefer?"

"The sword."

"When do you leave for Cuba?"

"When the workmen finish my steamship, which will be in about three weeks."

"Will Tarafa's father interfere with the duel?"

"He cannot now, according to Cuban etiquette, for among Cuban gentlemen the sword is the only reparation which can be made for insults like I have received."

"And your charming wife?"

"She is a noble woman and knows that her husbands' honor is at stake. She, like all Cuban ladies, differs from our popular idea of the American women, who would go into hysterics over the thought of their husbands fighting a duel. Not so she. Honor is at stake."

Lawyers Waldorf H. Phillips and Frederick Hemming of the Bennett building, unite in saying that blood obscures the Cuban moon. "I never saw a man as terribly excited as Tarafa was before he left for home," said Lawyer Hemming. "Day after day he kept up the one cry: 'I will kill him. He has insulted the lady, who is very highly respected. I must kill him.' The two men met here in my office and got to talking in Spanish. I had the greatest difficulty to prevent a duel, and I told Tarafa that he would have to get another counsellor if he did not agree not to meet Pdarazaza in my office. The two men are so terribly worked up over this matter that it will surely mean death for one or both."

"Did Mr. Pdarazaza settle the business matter with Tarafa before the latter's departure for Havana?"

"Yes, they drew up an article of agreement, but Tarafa refused to sign it. I believe that Pdarazaza will pay the young man's father when he gets back to Havana."

Pdarazaza said that the reason Tarafa left the city so soon was because he feared he would be killed by the husband of the woman whose name had been connected with his.

She is said to belong to the "Four Hundred," and her name often figures in the society columns of the newspapers. She used to call at the Hotel America and take young Tarafa, who is a very handsome fellow, out riding in the park. Her husband is said to be a well-known banker.

A Farmer's Ghastly Find Near Upper Sandusky.

Upper Sandusky, O., Oct. 5.—As Amos Myers was passing through a field on his farm, about seven miles east of here, he came across a store box partially buried in the ground.

He gathered up the remains and conveyed them to his home awaiting an investigation.

HE DIED A HERMIT.

E. H. Schermerhorn Leaves Twenty Million.

Peculiar Life of a Man Who Might Have Dwelt in Luxury and Done Much Good.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 3.—Edmund H. Schermerhorn, one of New York's rich men, died at his cottage on Narragansett avenue in the 74th year of his age.

Deceased was a bachelor, and was worth $20,000,000, being one of the largest owners of real estate in New York. Mr. Schermerhorn has owned an estate here for 20 years, and he has resided here winters and summers for about eight years. He lived the life of a hermit, and was decidedly peculiar and eccentric.

He was intimately related to many prominent families, being a cousin of Mrs. William Astor, but for years has held aloof from society. He has hid himself from the world, and even locked his front gates to prevent any one calling upon him.

He had but one brother, William C. Schermerhorn, also a rich New Yorker, who was compelled to enter the grounds, when he desired to see his brother, by the back gate and back door. The physician who attended the deceased also entered by the back door.

The six persons employed by Mr. Schermerhorn speak in high terms of their dead master, and they were the only persons who saw him. He wanted no other company, and he insisted upon being alone.

In the death of Mr. Schermerhorn there is removed from a prominent and wealthy family its principal member. He substantially remembered his attendant, William L. Northup, of this city, who was presented with a $6,000 burial lot, with costly vaults, and a handsome house was given him outright while Schermerhorn was alive, for the benefit of his children, who were greatly beloved by the deceased.

TAILORS ON A STRIKE.

They Go Out for An Advance in Wages,

Pursuant to a Decision Reached Saturday—The Employers Will Not Grant the Demands.

The union tailors of the city are on strike.

Pursuant to a decision arrived at Saturday, the journeymen tailors of the city went out on strike for an increase of wages.

There are about 200 journeymen tailors in Toledo, and over 85 per cent. belong to the union. Not a union man stayed in, and the shops with scarcely an exception, are tied up, so to speak.

Some time ago the union presented a schedule of prices to the employers which the latter could not, they said, consider for a moment.

The increase, in some cases, was 50 per cent. over the ruling rate, and in others the prices were over and above the total cost at which the garments have been selling for.

The strikers on the other hand say the average increase will not be over 10 per cent. of prevailing prices. They claim that the great majority of shops send "out" their garments and have them made by women, and that the prices paid women are not over 20 per cent. of the present established scale.

A meeting of the strikers will be held this evening at Druid hall and committees appointed to take charge of affairs.

It is understood this afternoon that the employers propose standing together, and unless the men agree to reasonable terms the goods will be sent to Cincinnati and other points to be made up.

The bosses have signed an agreement not to grant any of the demands made.

A motion for the appointment of a receiver was filed to-day in the case of Lavina H. Wood against Charles A. Howe.

Judge Pugsley to-day appointed Charles P. Schaefer as bailiff of court room 3.

A jury was empanelled in Judge Harmon's court to try criminal cases. The case of the state against Peter Beaubien, was taken up at 2 p. m. It is alleged that he knocked one Charles Mitchel down and robbed him of a watch chain.

REPORTED SECESSION

For a week or so there have been rumors in the air of a purpose on the part of the glassworkers to secede from the Knights of Labor. Locally nothing is known of the alleged move, although the following special from Pittsburg gives some color to the report:

Pittsburg, Oct. 3.—A movement is on foot, it is claimed, by L. A. 300, K. of L., which is composed of window glass workers, to withdraw from the Knights and form an independent organization of their own, to be known as the Independent Order of Window Glass Workers of America. At their regular meeting Friday night of last week, it is claimed that a proposition was introduced toward such a step, and that at the meeting last night it again came up for consideration. The cause given for this action is due to Grand Master Workman Powderly's entrance in politics and the conflicting statements regarding the financial condition of the general order of the knights, to which the glass workers are large contributors. When Secretary Cake, of the window glass workers, was seen regarding the report to-day, he stated that there was not the slightest truth in the story, and that it was wholly without foundation. Notwithstanding this denial of Secretary Cake, a prominent glass worker, who is a member of the organization, and has been present at the recent meetings, confirmed the report. The final reading, he said, would take place next Friday.

MRS. LESLIE MARRIED.

She Becomes Sister-in-Law to Oscar Wilde.

New York, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Frank Leslie was married Sunday by the Rev. C. F. Deems to William C. Kingsbury Wilde, M. A., of London, eldest son of the late Sir William Wilde, M. D., of Dublin.

The marriage service, which was that of the Episcopalian church, was performed by Dr. Deems in the Church of the Strangers, on Mercer street. The only witnesses were marshall Wilder, the humorist, and Mr. Cramer, a publisher, and his wife.

Mr. Wilde, who is on the staff of the London Daily Telegraph, is the eldest son of the late Sir Wm. Wilde, M. D., of Dublin, and a brother of Oscar Wilde, the well-known aesthetic. He has known Mrs. Leslie for some years. It is understood Mr. and Mrs. Wilde will remain in this country and enter into the editorial work in connection with the Leslie publications.

THE TIME IS UP.

The Secretary of State to Issue the Official Ballot.

Columbus, O., Oct. 5.—Numerous inquiries have been received by the secretary of state from election boards as to when the official ballot will be printed.

The ballot law provides that certificates of nomination for state officers may be filed with the secretary of state up to 30 days previous to day of election.

The time closed for filing of certificates yesterday, and the secretary of state will prepare the official form of state ballot, and by Wednesday the same will be mailed to all the election boards of the state.

Election boards are therefore cautioned not to receive nor print any form of ballots until the official forms be received from the secretary of state.

BILLY PATTERSON IS OUT.

Columbus, Oct. 5.—William Patterson, a Jackson county man serving a 15-year sentence for cutting with intent to kill, escaped from the penitentiary between 4 and 5 o'clock Sunday evening.

Patterson was at work in the prison gas factory, and taking advantage of a brief absence of his guard, scaled the wall at the northeast corner of the grounds. He placed a board against a shanty standing near the wall, climbed up this to the roof and from there reached the top of the wall, from which it is supposed he jumped.

ATTEMPTED TO HANG HIMSELF.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 5.—Carlos Baughman, arrested for abusing his family, attempted suicide in the city prison by hanging himself with his suspenders. He was black in the face when discovered and cut down, and it was with difficulty he was resuscitated.

Fruit Pinwheels.

© BY MARIA PARLOA.

Mix together and rub through a sieve one pint of flour, one tablespoonful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt and two teaspoonfuls of Cleveland's baking powder. Into this mixture rub two generous tablespoonfuls of butter. Wet with a scant half-pint of milk. Sprinkle the board with flour, and, putting the dough upon it, roll down to a large square about half an inch thick. Spread a heaping tablespoonful of soft butter on this and then spread with a cupful of sugar and a cupful of currants. Grate a little nutmeg over all, and roll up like a jelly roll—or pinwheel style. Cut in slices about three-quarters of an inch thick and lay in well buttered pans. Do not let the slices touch each other. Bake in a very quick oven for about twelve minutes. These are nice for luncheon or tea.—(Copyright, 1891, by Cleveland Baking Powder Co.)

Use only Cleveland's baking powder, the proportions are made for that.

With Cleveland's Baking Powder cake keeps fresh; breads are fine grained; biscuit light and flaky. Try a can, Cleveland's.

AN OHIO GIRL'S SUCCESS.

The Detroit Tribune has the following complimentary notice of Miss Anna Laden, a young lady who has many friends in Toledo:

Miss Anna Laden, who has been studying the past summer in Detroit, and whose prominence in musical circles is due to her artistic ability as a vocalist, will appear in a number of concerts during the season of '91 and '92, but will not accept a choir position, as was announced. Though young, she has a soprano voice of unusual power and beauty, and critics say that she is the equal of many successful professionals. She sings with infinite tenderness and her voice is heard to the best advantage in semi-pathetic selections, her sweet rendition of the the Jewel Song from Faust winning special praise. Miss Laden is also a finished pianist, having studied with John Howard, of New York. She is a native of Ohio and a sister of Miss Rosabelle Laden, soprano, who sang with the most brilliant success, while studying in New York.

Mexican Roach Destroyer Company.

DEAR SIRS: This is to certify that the Mexican Cockroach Powder is the very best powder for cockroaches that I have ever tried. My house was just full of them. They started in the kitchen, and from there went all over the house, parlors and bedrooms included. I tried powdered borax and any amount of insect powder, but it not seem to do much good, as they seemed to breed twice as fast. I could kill them when we tried the Mexican Cockroach Powder, and its effects were truly wonderful, as after trying about four pounds of the powder it has cleaned them entirely out of the house. It does not send them from place to place, but kills them after they eat it.

Yours respetfully,

CLAMORING FOR CASH.

Exciting Scenes in Kingston, N. Y., This Morning.

Hundreds of Depositors at the Crippled Banks.

Two of the Institutions Have Got Under the Sixty-Day Notice—Others Try to Pay All On Demand.

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Many people came into town by rail and wagon this morning from all directions, to see about their deposits in the three savings banks.

Those having money in the Ulster County Savings institution, which has been plundered by its managers, have little hope of recovering their money.

Those having deposits in the Kingston Savings bank and the Rondout Savings bank, will have to wait 60 days to find out whether they can draw their money or not, as both those concerns has posted notices, taking advantage of the law in that respect.

Crowds of depositors are in line at each bank with passbooks in hand, waiting their turn to give notice of withdrawal. The managers hope, however, to be able to restore confidence by showing the sound condition of the institution. They have received remittances from Albany and elsewhere which they rely on to carry them through the day at least. It is reported from New Paltz and Saugerties that runs are threatened on the savings banks at those places. The 60 days' notice will be demanded if runs occur there.

MAY AVENGE THE DEED.

Hannegan's Father May Yet Kill Haines.

A Man Acquitted of a Charge of Murder Acting in An Unbecoming Manner.

Washington, Oct. 5.—A morning paper says that the residents in the neighborhood of Connecticut avenue and L street fear the killing of young Hannegan by Thorton Haines at Fort Monroe, will result in further bloodshed.

The father of young Hannegan lives at No. 1140 Connecticut avenue and his son's slayer frequently passes his house. The sight of Haines throws Mr. Hannegan into a rage, but the young man does not seem to care for that and according to the published story, while passing the Hannegan house at one time, he caught sight of the bereaved father in a window and smiled mockingly at him.

It is said Mr. Hannegan attempted to kill Haines last Friday evening on the street.

SEALS ARE PLENTY.

A Canadian's View Who Has Just Returned from the North.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 5.—Prof. James Macoun, of the Canadian geological survey, who accompanied the British commissioners to Bering sea, writing to the government officials here, says the commissioners were astounded to note the plentifulness of seals, having been led by the United States reports to suppose that the seals were almost exterminated.

At St. Paul's island alone fully half a million seals were in sight.

Mr. Macoun implies that the commissioners will suggest the setting apart for all time to come of half a dozen islands in Bering sea exclusively for seal breeding purposes, and that then there will be no danger of extermination.

LOW WATER IN THE OHIO.

Cincinnati, Oct. 5.—The water in the Ohio is so low that 18 steamboats are aground between here and Point Pleasant, W. Va. It is said that in several places the river can be safely crossed by horses and wagons. Shippers are put to much loss by the interruption of navigation.

Vapor Poison and Its Antidote.

The morning and evening mists that pervade the atmosphere of malarious localities cannot be breathed with impunity. A safe-guard is needed to render harmless the dangerous miasmata with which they are impregnated. The surest, safest defense is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is an antidote to the poison which has already been inhaled and borne fruit, an adequate preventive of its harmful effects. No preparative for breathers of miasma-tainted air or drinkers of malaria-poisoned water like the Bitters. It completely neutralizes the otherwise irresistible onset of the aerial foe. Settlers on newly cleared land, excavators of canal routes (notably that on the Isthmus of Panama), western pioneers and emigrants—in short all subjected to melarial influences in air or water find it a benign remedy, an effectual safeguard. Disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, "la grippe," rheumatism and kidney complaints are remedied by the Bitters.

Republicans are not betting on majorities in Hamilton county.

Mr. Flickinger is having a difficult time explaining to Germans why he denied his nationality a few years ago.

It will be a repetition of the first Hoadley campaign in Lucas county this year. The democrats will carry every precinct and elect their entire ticket.

Gov. Campbell has challenged Mr. McKinley to eight more joint debates, but the one-idea republican candidate is as afraid of our Jimmy as was Gov. Foraker two years ago, and declines.

The Irish question this side of the water resolves itself into the sensible conclusion: "Settle your differences among yourselves at home before you come to us asking for aid; we have no funds for factions."

The election of Harry Dowling is generally conceded. There was a time when his opponent, Mr. Stewart, was very popular, but he has made some ... takes the past two years and will be made a one termer as sheriff of Lucas county. Mr. Dowling is gaining every day.

Ex-Congressman Allen, of Michigan, went to Massachusetts to tell the people of that state that "tin plate factories are springing up all over the country," and that "the McKinley bill has not raised the price of goods" and that "the people of this country are a thankless, grumbling set." Verily the republicans of the old Bay state must be hard pushed for campaign material.

The democrats of Toledo are greatly pleased at the appointment of Roger Q. Mills to speak in this place. The date is Friday of this week. Mr. Mills is one of the foremost statesmen of the country, broad in intellect and comprehensive in dealing with all public questions. He is authority on the tariff question and handles the McKinley monstrosity without gloves. The meeting at Memorial hall should be largely attended.

Democrats, bear this in mind: if you make an X mark on your ballot on the margin just at the left of the words "Democratic State Ticket," your vote will count straight and right. Do not study the devious way of scratching. The ballot law is democratic. It was passed by a democratic legislature. See that you help along the law this year by voting straight. Put your X mark where we suggest and you will help prepare for a big democratic jollification after the election.

Various excuses are offered for the postponement of the reciprocity conference of representatives of this country with those of Canada. Mr. Blaine's illness, President Harrison's weakness and cowardice, diplomatic schemes for the absorption of Canada, which a treaty with the conservative party would thwart, and others as silly and inconsistent. The conclusion of the whole matter is Mr. Blaine's reciprocity scheme is a roaring farce, meant only to deceive people and hold voters of the party who are honest in their opposition to the robber tariff law.

The greatest political debate of recent years will take place between Gov. Campbell and Mr. McKinley at Ada on Thursday of this week. No better place could have been selected for this meeting of the candidates, as nearly a thousand young voters, attending the Normal school at Ada, are in the formative period of their political future, and will eagerly listen to the debate. Mr. McKinley is the American Prince of Protection, the embodiment of all that is opposed to free trade intercourse between nations. Gov. Campbell represents the ancient democratic doctrine of encouraging trade at home and abroad by the most liberal inducements for manufacture and barter. Each candidate is worthy the cause he espouses and will be expected to furnish the people much food for good thought. We have the greatest faith in Gov. Campbell's ability to worst the author of the McKinley nonstrosity, and expect to print a report on Friday that will be cheering to the friends of lower taxation. Gov. Campbell will appear the worthy leader he really is.

Harvey Magee Watterson, father of Mr. Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, who died October 1, was the only survivor of the Twenty-sixth congress. He was editor of the Nashville Union, and later, in 1851, of the Washington Union; his master passion was patriotism and love of country. He went home from the Tennessee convention, called to consider the secession of that state sad and desponding before its deliberations were concluded, because he saw no hope for the success of the minority in favor of the Union. Henry, the son, came honestly enough by his star-eyed-goddess-of-liberty proclivities, as by his commanding talent in his profession. Mr. Watterson was a lawyer of ability and, it will be remembered, was President Johnson's most valued counsel and advisor. With his demise at the age of 80 years, the country loses one of its typical honest and able patriots and statesmen.

There is nothing like a specialty in a profession, even in the newspaper. The New York Herald has one; it is the weather. The following extracts from its autumn essay show the safe versatility of its genius:

Autumn on Tuesday last made his entrance upon continent, but with hesitating step, as if ashamed to mar the work of the long summer. The astonishing hot season is slowly yielding before the inexorable march of its successor. It is not likely that the coming autumn will be on the average abnormally rigorous throughout the country. At this turning point of the year every one is curious to know what the coming fall and winter will be. Judging by the summer we should naturally expect that they will be mild. As yet science has not satisfactorily determined the conditions which bring about severe or moderate winters. * * * But these data will suffice to show that predictions are illusory. Invalids and all delicate persons, especially those suffering from pulmonary troubles or the effects of the "grippe" epidemic of last year, should ponder this, and the farmers of the west, who have just harvested fine crops, should remember that they cannot count upon such good agricultural seasons next year as they have just passed through.

These prognostications are as sure to be correct as the prayer of the "Novem" is to be answered: In a Brittany village when a person lies ill and ready to die, nine praying women march to the miraculous spring praying "Lord, if it be Thy will restore the sick to health or end her pains by death." This prayer is repeated at the spring's side and at the bed of the afflicted, and needless to say is always answered.

Now the Bee's Mr. Foster doesn't generalize and put graduating essay paragraphs. He simply predicts the next storm and it getteth here, and the weather is not a Bee specialty either.

THE RAUM DISGRACE.

Washington newspapers correspondents are a shrewd lot. They are the most skillful of detectives, and where they once miss their calculations they hit straight nine times. There is no mystery to them about the Raum disgrace. George E. Lemon, the notorious pension attorney, has a grip on the Commissioner, and President Harrison dare not dismiss him without Lemon's permission. He (Lemon) loaned Raum twelve thousand dollars to insure the grip aforesaid, which same was recognized by Officer Raum by furnishing him "completed files" from which the pension shark might work claimants. A practice which was scored during Tanner's administration, and which that officer did not dare to continue. This practice Commissioner Raum re-established, and in return for personal favor, gave the notorious Lemon a pull on the string. To attempt to shoulder the disgrace of the department upon Raum, jr., is futile; the son was simply putting his feet in the tracks of his official parent. And because Attorney Lemon, who has become a millionaire through his manipulations of soldiers' pension claims, knows the deep disgrace of the whole business, and would be a dangerous man to thwart and oppose at this time of all others, the president dare not dismiss his man Raum from the head of the bureau. The testimony is on record that during the first six months after the bargain was made, over eight thousand of Lemon's cases were advanced and placed on the "completed files," and yet the leech isn't satisfied.

If republican officers in Washington had common political honesty and sagacity they would agree, for the good of their party, if not of the country, that their first duty was to expose this rottenness in the pension department to its very core. To gloss it over is impossible, to condone such offense is disreputable and must end disastrously. It is not a party question, it is simply an affair of honest dealing with the people's money which the people are ready, willing and eager to pay to the veteran soldiers of the country who have earned it and should have it. The guilty party has too long succeeded in carrying the idea that to oppose corrupt methods in the distribution of pension money was to oppose the payment of pensions at all, and so great is the loyalty of the people to its veteran soldiery, they have been slow to discover and believe. But the abuses have become so flagrant, concealment is no longer possible.

The name of Stanford will be long and honorably perpetuated in the grand school opened the other day at Menlo Park, California, known as the "Leland Stanford, jr., University." It is not only the most generously endowed institution on the Pacific coast, but rivals the oldest and best institutions in the east. It is designed, before the work is finished, to make it the most completely equipped school in the United States. Its faculty is made up of wide awake, capable western educators, and the greatest glory of it all is that the expenses of the students are to be placed at the lowest minimum figure, and that its first aim is to fit young men and woman alike, for the best there is in life before them. The name of a noble and beloved child could not be more fittingly shrined in perpetual remembrance.

Chandler, the Oklahoma city of 20,000 inhabitants, "born in an hour," has a flourishing cemetery established and is about ready for incorporation, political conventions, state fairs and other affairs of magnitude.

No use disguising the fact, base ball is on the decline; the close of the season calls forth little interest or comment. Whether cricket or "golf," or football shall succeed as the national game is not yet indicated.

On the side of one of the handsomest business blocks in Toledo is a temporay muslin placard bearing the words: "The Bee now occupies its new home." This refers to the new location of the Toledo Evening Bee on St. Clair street in that city. We congratulate the Bee in having such elegant quarters. This is the best all-around daily newspaper the democrats of Lucas county ever had, and they should encourage and support it to a man. A political party without its "organ" is like a bell without its clapper

From the Toledo American:

The Bee is now occupying its new building on St. Clair street, between Madison and Adams. The building itself, erected expressly for the Bee, is one of the handsomest structures in the city, and has every convenience for the publication of the paper. It is five stories high with basement, solidly brick, with front of Lake Superior brown sandstone, and is an ornament to the city.

WILL DEMAND INDEMNITY.

Spain Must Pay for Her Wrong Doing.

The Caroline Islands Incident Promises to Prove of International Interest After All.

Washington, Oct. 5.—It is currently reported that the president intends demanding indemnity of Spain for outrages committed on American missionaries in the Caroline islands.

The wrongs complained of are that the Spanish officers in control of the islands have permitted the churches of the Protestant missionaries to be burned and the ministers and their families to be harrassed and subjected to all sorts of indignities, even to having their lives endangered.

It may be that Spain will demand the withdrawal of the missionaries on the ground that they teach principles contrary to those of the established church of Spain and her possessions.

This would be complied with, but that would not absolve Spain from liability for damages already done.

THE STROBEIKA TRICK.

Herrmann's Manager Had Some Fun With a Commercial Reporter Who Writes an Explanation.

The Commercial comes out this morning with an explanation of Herrmann's Strobeika trick—a very weak explanation purporting to come from Herrmann's manager. It is very likely that Herrmann's manager gives his best tricks away to newspaper reporters above all individuals. If he did he wouldn't be Herrmann's manager long, for the magician doesn't study out or pay big money for tricks just to have them explained in the papers.

If the manager told anything it was a fake, and he was getting the reporter "on a string," which he evidently did. The Commercial calls the Bee's explanation an "alleged explanation," and then goes on and says that a board is shoved out from a panel in the scenery at the back of the stage, over which the man and woman cross and recross to the cabinet when they change places. A more absurd idea could not be invented. In the first place the scenery used belonged to the house and there were no holes or panels in it. In the second place the scenery was so far back from the cabinet that such an operation could be seen from the gallery or any seat on the extreme right or left of the stage. From the gallery one could see right over the cabinet. The Bee who explained the Strobeika trick made his first investigations in Paris with the original trick, which was worked much better than that of Herrmann's. He afterwards discovered the workings of the trick when it was taken to London, and the explanation in the Bee was the first and only correct explanation that was ever published.

ST. PATRICK'S NEW CHURCH.

Parishioners Examine the Plans and Specifications.

Yesterday afternoon the parishioners of St. Patrick's church visited the institute for the purpose of veiwing and criticizing the plans for the new church to be erected on the site of the old one, corner of Lafayette and Thirteenth streets.

The plans show that Father Hamlin proposes having the finest church in Toledo. The proportions are: Length, 175 feet 2 inches; transcept, 112 feet; width of church proper, 72 feet. There will be five aisles, divided by ornamented granite pillars and eight tiers of pews capable of seating 1,200 people. There are five altars—the high altar, two each side, and two in the transcept. There will be five entrances, the main one of which facing in Lafayette street, will be beautiful. The tower will be 235 feet high.

The designer is Mr. M. P. Hamlin, a student at Notre Dame, and nephew of Father Hamlin. He is not quite 18 years of age, but exhibits rare genius as a draughtsman and designer. The well-known Chicago architect, A. Douding, will finish the work.

SWALLOWED A PEACH-STONE.

A Toledoan in Bad Shape at Loveland.

Mr. Tilden, a prominent business man from near Toledo, who is visiting at Loveland, yesterday met with a painful and what may prove a very serious accident, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. While eating peaches a large peach-stone slipped into the esophagus, and in spite of efforts at dislodging it it passed on into the stomach. From the constant contractions of the stomach the stone is constantly changing its position, and the sharp angles coming in contact with the sensitive mucous membrane cause such intense agony that, from the pain and anxiety, Mr. Tilden is completely prostrated. Very little can be done to relieve the unfortunate gentleman, but his physician hopes that the stone will either gradually pass downward or become encysted.

Silence That Speaks Aloud.

Right in Youngstown, O., where the smoking chimneys of protected factories made the air as murky as a protectionist argument, and the clanging of protected machinery was as deafening as the cries of a 100-year-old infant industry for more protection pap, Gov. Campbell propounded this inquiry: "What industry has raised wages on account of the McKinley bill? You can't name one." And the silence of the thousands of workingmen who stood about him spoke louder than whole volumes of lying statistics compiled by partisan commissions.—Chicago Times.

The Prudent President.

It is telegraphed from Washington that the president will make no important appointments until after the November elections. If Mr. Harrison has decided upon some of the appointments that are said to be slated it is highly prudent in him to wait until after the elections before making them.—New York World.

Why Not Favor Ohio?

It is stated that President Harrison has sent his personal check to the republican campaign committee of New York. Perhaps he will favor the republicans of Massachusetts in a similar fashion. Massachusetts is a doubtful state.—Boston Herald.

B. H.'s Dilemma.

President Harrison's dilemma is a painful one. If he is to turn out Raum, the pension attorneys will not contribute to a Harrison campaign fund. Should he keep him, the pension office scandal will not down. Poor B. H.!—Courier Journal.

We Are To the Front.

The Toledo Bee has moved into their elegant new quarters. The Bee not only shows its mark of progress by the elegant building and new machinery, but its entire paper in news and editorial ability is to the front.—Oak Harbor Press.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Tiffin, O., Oct. 5.—Adam Haefling, an old resident of Hopwell township, was seized with a hemorrhage while sitting on his porch and expired an hour later.

HIGHER THAN THE LAW.

This morning Judge Harmon handed down an opinion in the case in which action was brought to compel the county commissioners to obey the law in the matter of publishing the annual report of the commissioners. The learned Judge decides that the courts have no power to compel the commissioners to observe the law.

This is directly in keeping with and sustains Jacob Engelhardt in his famous declaration that "law or no law the commissioners will do as they d—n please, anyhow." As these officials are officially adjudged higher than the law, they have a perfect right to be as extravagant and as reckless as they please. Mr. Engelhardt is well fortified for his present campaign.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Explosion of a Gasoline Stove Results Fatally.

Mrs. Lillie Warner, principal of Brown's Addition school, was fatally burned Saturday morning at her home on Thirteenth street, by an explosion of gasoline, and died at 9 o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. Warner arose early Saturday morning, and attempted to light the gasoline stove, when from some unknown cause the gasolie exploded, enveloping her in the flames. She was badly burned all over the body, and suffered intense pain until relieved by death.

Mrs. Warner was a widow, and leaves three children to mourn her sad and sudden death.

She was well known in Toledo, was married in the city and educated in the high school.

For some time she has held the position of principal of the Brown's Addition school.

Coroner Roulet viewed the remains and pronounced it death from accidntal burning.

Mrs. Warner was about 42 years of age. The funeral took place this afternoon.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Hon. Frank H. Hurd to Preside at the Mills Meeting,

To Be Held At Memorial Hall Friday Evening—Democrats, Remember to Register—Local News Notes.

Hon. Roger Q. Mills and Capt. Bell will speak at Memorial hall Friday evening. Hon. Frank H. Hurd will preside and will probably have something of interest to say on the occasion. Arrangements should be made to give Mr. Mills a warm reception. The executive committee has made the preliminary arrangements.

Democrats should cut this item out and paste it in their hats: The days for registering will be October 8, 15, 23 and 24. Every democrat should register.

There is a great deal of misunderstanding relative to the Australian ballot. It is just as easy—vote your ticket straight by making a cross opposite the word "Democratic" at the head of the ticket. If you scratch one you must then place a cross before the name of every candidate for whom you desire to vote.

The democratic executive committee met Saturday evening and transacted considerable routine business.

Congressman Crisp will probably speak in Toledo October 27. He is a rattler.

Democratic headquarters, Room 23, Law Building, is open and running.

Register on the 8th, 15th, 23d or 24th. Don't forget.

It was only a straw, but then the ballot fiend was along with the excursion which came in yesterday over the Clover Leaf going to Detroit. Here is the vote:

| | |
|---|---|
| Campbell | 135 |
| McKinley | 84 |
| Seitz | 6 |
| Asenhurst | 4 |

That intersection law will lay out Griffin with the property owners.

The election of Griffin means the supremacy of Squire in the republican camp of Lucas county.

Vote your ticket straight and to do so it will only be necessary to make a cross like this X before the word "Democratic" at the head of your ticket.

The democratic executive committee will hold an important meeting to-night at headquarters in the Law building.

Beckwith has no use for organized labor and the labor organizations of Toledo will show the doctor that they have no use for him.

The Court House ring should go. It is a beauty but a too, too expensive luxury. Stuart, Hunter and Englehardt are all in it.

Harry Dowing is a native Toledoan. Young, energetic and business from head to toe. He will run like a house on fire.

Thepoor of the city should have at least one friend on the infirmary board. Van Wormer is their man.

Griffin is having a hard time in explaining away that garnishee bill of his.

It is dollars to doughnuts that Squire will be railroad commissioner if McKinley is elected and Griffin has his say.

Jake Donaldson says that Rorick and McConica are both Sherman men.

The fanatical followers of Foraker are trying to throw the blame of their recent defeat on Squire's shoulders. Squire is also blamed with killing the turtle.

The Seventh ward ring believes it owns the court house and half the city.

The great triumvirate—Brown, Waldorf and Austin—are said to be trading off the county ticket for their legislative nominees.

Billy Cook is not running Hunter's and Stuart's campaign this trip, but they are still in the ring.

What has become of the Toledo republican club. Echo answers what?

That turtle soup seems to have hoodooed the institution of which Tucker was the figurehead and Squire the boss.

Jake Englehardt has cost the taxpayers of Lucas county more money than any one who has ever filled the office of county commissioner. Jake is also in it.

Unless you are in the ring paradoxical as it may seem, you are not in it.

Billy Cook used to say the brain of Lucas county republicanism resided in Ward 7. Judging from the number of county officers from that ward it would look as if Billy was right.

TESTING TOLEDO'S WATER.

Dr. Currier of Buffalo Tries an Experiment.

Saturday Dr. Currier of Buffalo made a preliminary test of Mr. H. T. Yarvan's purifier recently patented by the inventor. The apparatus kills and totally destroys all disease germs and microbes and makes the water as pure as that of a spring well.

It will be several days before the results can be fully ascertained. Both Dr. Currier and Mr. Yarvan feel confident the invention will prove a success, and should it be it will be a bonanza.

Dr. Currier left Saturday evening, but will return and make the final test some day this week.

SALE OF THE MACKINAW.

Keen Competition Between the C. H. & D. and the Ingersoll Interests.

The sale of the Mackinaw railroad will take place to-morrow afternoon in the U. S. district court, and U. S. Marshal Wade will sell it to the highest bidder.

There will be considerable competition between the C. H. & D. people, who want it badly, and the reorganization committee, who is represented by Col. R. G. Ingersoll.

The sale will commence at 3 p. m. tomorrow before Marshal Wade.

ROBISONS' NEW CAR HOUSE

Located Corner of Ontario and Galena Street—The Work Commenced.

The Robison Electric Street Car company has purchased through Mr. J. S. Kountz, a tract of land, corner of Galena and Ontario streets, upon which a large car house will be erected.

The building will be 175 feet by 125 and will hold 75 cars. It will be one story and frame.

The plans have been prepared and the work of erection will probably commence this week. Some of the lumber is already on the ground.

A GENIAL T. P. A.

John T. Gamble of the Ohio Central Lines a Railroad Boo Bah.

John T. Gamble, traveling passenger agent of the Ohio Central lines, is one of the most popular railroad men in Toledo and one of its well known citizens. Mr. Gamble is a veritable Poo Bah of the rail. What he doesn't know about railroading would be hard to state. He has been in the business all his life, has pitched his tent in many cities and has been connected with many roads in various important positions. Among the numerous railroads with which he has worked and gleaned his valuable experience are the following: Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern; the Missouri Pacific;

the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe; the Union Pacific; the Missouri, Kansas & Texas; the C., W. & D.; the Wheeling & Lake Erie; the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern; the Big Four; the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw, and the Toledo & Ohio Central—quite a list.

Mr. Gamble is a gentleman who it is a pleasure to meet, and the T. & O. C. can pride itself on its popular T. P. A. Mr. Gamble was formerly in the auditing department of the road, and his appointment to his present position was made recently. He is, as well as a railroad man, an earnest energetic worker in the Knights of Pythias and is a past chancellor of Charles Sumner lodge of this city, and lieutenant of Miami Division, Uniform Rank.

THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

Interesting News From the Countries South.

Petroleum for Fuel Successfully Used by the Railroads in Peru—General Mention.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The bureau of American republics is informed that the republic of Costa Rica has renewed its contract with the Foxhill line of steamers between New Orleans and Port Limon for four years, with the Kosmos line of Hamberg, Germany, for one year, and with the Atlas line of steamers and the Royal Mail Steam Packet company for five years each. These companies receive no subsidies in cash, but a rebate of 55 per cent. is given on duties charged upon merchandise brought by them to the ports of Costa Rica; and they are levied from port duties.

Reports are received by the bureau of the American republics to the effect that the experiments of using petroleum for fuel on the Oroya railway in Peru has proven successful. The trials were made at an altitude of 5,800 feet above the sea, with two locomotives from Patterson, N. J. The oil used is not crude petroleum, but a residuum oil with a fire test of about 300 degrees Fahr. In the trials the average consumption of oil was 38.55 lb. per mile, while with coal it was 79.30 lb. It is reported that the Oroya Railway company have decided to adopt oil fuel on the whole of their locomotives.

The official reports of the receipts and expenses of the republic of Salvador recently received by the bureau of American republics give the following interesting figures for the first half of year 1891: Receipts, $3,660,574.07; expenditures, $3,587,666.89. The principle sources of revenue were: General treasury, $813,070.52; custom receipts at La Libertad $783,759.89; at Sonsonato, $875,730.31 at La Union, $290,333.56.

The bureau has received from its correspondent at Buenos Ayres the estimate made by the agricultural department of the Argentine Republic of the crop for the current year. The value of the agricultural and pastoral products, unless something unforeseen occurs, is estimated as follows:

Wheat, 800,000 tons, 5,600,000 pounds sterling; maize, 1,000,000 tons, 3,000,000 pounds sterling; alfalfa, 3,000,000 tons, 4,500,000 pounds sterling; sugar, 50,000 tons, 600,000 pounds sterling; wool ,135,000 tons, 7,200,000 pounds sterling; sundries, 17,100,000 pounds sterling. Total, $28,000,000 pounds sterling.

Of the above total about the value of 23,000,000 pounds sterling would be required for home use, leaving for exportation about 15,000,000 pounds sterling.

REPUBLICAN FIZZLE.

Flickinger and Fassett Harangue a Small Crowd in Maumee.

The republicans tried to have a big republican meeting in Maumee Saturday night, but it petered down to almost a fizzle.

The band tooted from the Schiely house to the center of town with just four torch bearers following behind.

The speakers were the silver-haired orator, Charles Andrew Flickinger, and Mr. Fassett, who is accused of trying to defeat Flickinger at the polls. Fassett's speech convinced the few who heard him that the accusation is well founded, though Flickinger is too obtuse to see it.

When Flickinger began speaking there were two or three hundred persons present. A few minutes of silver-haired eloquence drove two-thirds of the crowd from the hall.

Charles Andrew reminded the citizens that he had done wonders as admiral of the canal navy and had raised the wages of state boat captains to $50 a month, therefore he should be elected to the legislature.

Fassett said the railways are untaxed and that Flickinger's special duty in the legislature will be to see that every car is made to pay a big tax, and that all the corporations will also be taxed out of their boots, and the people of Maumee will have nothing to pay. When Fassett concluded there were 10 persons in the hall.

The silver-haired orator did not explain to the people why he denied being a German a few years since.

WORKING A GREAT SCHEME.

Bogus Chinaman Used As Ringers.

Border People, in Conjunction With United States Officials, Are Reaping a Great Harvest.

New York, Oct. 5.—The Sun says that the capture of a Toronto and a New York man and two Chinamen whom they were apparently smuggling into the country, at Niagara Falls, Saturday, has led to the discovery of a conspiracy, presumably with a deputy United States marshal, to bring Chinamen over the line and have them captured for the sake of the fees, which are then divided up among the conspirators. Under recent rulings the courts send the Chinamen back to Canada, and the same batch of Celestials can be run across again inside of an hour if desired.

REED WILL NOT RETIRE.

Boston, Oct. 5.—A Globe special from Portland, Me., says that Congressman Reed denies the rumor that he has decided to retire from political life at the close of his present term.

ANOTHER MINE HORROR.

Six Men Shut Up in An Underground Tomb.

One Killed, Another Seriously Injured and No Hope of Rescuing the Imprisoned Men.

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 5.—By the explosion in Richardson colliery Saturday evening, John Magasky, a Polander, was killed and James Grant and Thomas Conville seriously injured. The men entombed in the mine are.

Thomas Claney, married.
John Lawler, married.
James Simmons.
Michael Welsh, married.
John Pursell, fire boss, married, and John Cusick, a Polander, single.

There is no hope of recovering them alive.

SPORTING.

The League Race Told in a Few Words and Figures.

The National league championship race for 1891 has ended. In some quarters there is joy, in others nothing but sadness. The Bostons are champions. When the season opened each team had bright hopes of winning the pennant. As time progressed it was seen that the pace was too fast for some of them and they dropped back beaten. New York, as usual, made a very poor start. The team did not strike its gait until May 19, and then in just 21 days it climbed from seventh place to the leadership. From June 11 to July 1, inclusive, New York held first place by varying lead, amounting at one time to 88 points. All through July New York and Chicago alternately led the procession, but Chicago finally triumphed, and soon after Boston also passed New York in the race. The feature of the season was Boston's plucky uphill spurt, winning the championship at the eleventh hour. Brooklyn finishes seventh and Pittsburg last.

But had Boston, New York and the other eastern clubs not entered into a combine, and had New York played ball, in its true sense, Old Man Anson would have won the pennant.

His victory, as it is, however, is a great one, and base ball people can take off their hats to the old man just the same.

Boston association club will win the pennant and it will be interesting to note whether the two clubs waive their national agreement opinions and play a series in face of the fact that thousands of Boston dollars stand ready to crowd their way into the gate.

Excitement Is Intense.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 5.—Excitement over the coming $10,000 race between Nelson and Allerton Tuesday, is intense. The hotel lobbies are crowded and all are eagerly watching for pointers. That it will be an honest horse race for blood and the trotting event of the season, there is no question. The grand stand has been enlarged and special trains will be run from all directions. An attendance of thirty to forty thousand is expected.

LOCAL LABOR NEWS.

This evening the joint committee of local assemblies 10062 and 1942 will meet with a view of making arrangements for the grand ball to be given on the occasion of the meeting of the general assembly in this city next month.

The Electric Street Car Men's union held a largely attended meeting Saturday night. Outside of the initiation of new members nothing but general routine business was transacted.

The Pavers' union held a brief business session Saturday night. Everything is lovely and all the members are at work.

The Painters are making elaborate arrangements for their dance to be given Oct. 8. It promises to be a fine affair.

At the meeting of Joan of Arc assembly Wednesday evening arrangements will be made for a social entertainment to be given in the near future.

THE OHIO YACHT CLUB.

The Annual Meeting This Week—A Word About the Secretaryship.

A neat roster of the officers and members of the Ohio Yacht club has been published for distribution among the members. It shows the total membership to be 369—313 active, 44 non-resident, 12 honorary.

The regular annual meting of the club for election of officers and other important business, will be held Friday evening, October 9.

The club is in excellent shape financially as the reports of the treasurer and house committee show. John Gunckel, the efficient secretary and treasurer of the club, in consequence of his modesty, perhaps, states that he will not be a candidate for re-election. Mr. Gunckel has done wonders for the club during his term of office and is the right man in the right place without a doubt. The club should see to it that Mr. Gunckel changes his mind in this matter, and if he won't change it himself why change it for him.

CONTRADICTORY REPORTS

A Banker Who Says There Was Fighting in Guatemala.

New York, Oct. 5.—A banker of Guatemala, in a private letter to Mr. Ramon Valez, of the Revist Popular, under date of Sept. 16, says:

"The 15th of September, which ought to have passed with pleasant memories, as it was the anniversary of our independence, turned out very sadly because of the fighting between the two parties. Many were wounded by balls, daggers, rocks and the garrote. But only one or two were killed outright.

"The disturbance was provoked because of the fear of Gen. Barrillas, which led him to order his soldiers to fire upon the people."

FUNNY SIGHTS.

I saw a cow hide in the grass,
A rush-light on the floor;
I saw a candle-stick in the mud,
A bell-pull at the door.

I saw a horse-fly up a creek,
A cat-nip at her food;
I saw a chestnut burr, and heard
A shell-bark in the wood.

I saw a jack-plane off a board,
A car's ring off a track;
I saw a saw-dust off the floor,
And then a carpet-tack.

I saw a monkey-wrench a hat
From a fair lady's pate;
I saw a rattle-snake a bird,
And hog's-head on a plate.

I saw a brandy-smash a glass,
I saw a shooting-star;
I've heard the corns-talk in the field,
And pig iron crow-bar.

I saw a pin-wheel off a post,
A wheel-wright in the shop;
I saw a gin-sling on a bar,
I saw a ginger-pop.

I saw a house-fly over a field,
I saw an ox-roast, too;
I saw a shad-roe and clam-bake,
And saw a chicken-stew.

I saw a sword-fish from a bank,
And heard the water-spout;
I saw tobacco-spit, and then
I heard an eye-ball out.

I heard a fence-rail at the din,
I heard a waist-band play
A lovely strain—a sweet spittoon—
And then I went away.

BEESWAX.

The statue of William Ellery Channing, to be erected at Newport at a cost of $20,000, is given to W. J. Weld, now of that city, but formerly a Bostonian. The granite base will stand 10 feet above the ground, and the bronze will rise nine feet higher.

Great Britain is going steadily ahead in the work of fortifying the coast line of her American possessions on both sides of the continent. Important fortifications are being built on the British Columbian coast, and the authorities have now decided to place two revolving turrets at the Fort York redoubt at Halifax.

The latest Indian census shows that in the last 10 years the natural growth of India's population has been 27,500,000. The population now numbers 286,000,000. One can hardly appreciate what these figures mean except by comparison. India contains more people than all Europe exclusive of Russia.

A new infantry drill book is to be issued by the British war office authorities within the next two or three weeks, and it is said to contain some striking changes and innovations in tactics. The marvelous accuracy of the new weapons has doomed the close order, or "brick-wall formation," and the day of mathematical movements is over.

Prof. Holden, of the Lick observatory, draws especial attention to a white spot on the top of one of a range of mountains on the moon. Speculations as to whether it is snow or not are rife among astronomers who have had an opportunity of examining the photographs. Should it prove to be snow the existence of an atmosphere on the moon will have been proved.

Seventeen miles southwest of Waverly, Ill., lies a small stream called Panther creek. On its banks are several large caves. During the earthquake on Saturday night crash after crash was heard from the larger cave, and on being investigated it was found that numbers of large fissures in the rocks had appeared.

It has been often said that people are easily amused, and here seems to be a proof of the assertion. The sporting citizens of Houston, Tex., to the number of 5,000 turned out a few days ago to witness a goat race. There were 63 entries, big books were made on the event and hundreds of dollars in pools were sold. Some of the goats made 200 yards in 32 seconds in harness.

By some one who has looked up the matter it is recalled that ex-Governor Morehouse, of Missouri, is the third ex-governor of that state to die by his own hands. Thomas Reynolds, after serving a four years' term, killed himself at Jefferson city in 1844, and Thomas C. Reynolds at St. Louis in 1887, though the friends of the latter attributed his death to accident. It will be remembered that he threw himself from a circular stairway in the custom house.

Astronomy is one of the progressive sciences. Prof. Holden, of the Lick Observatory, draws especial attention to a white spot on the top of one of a range of mountains on the moon. Speculations as to whether it is snow or not are rife among astronomers who have had an opportunity of examining the photographs. Should it prove to be snow, the existence of an atmosphere on the moon will have been proved. Who knows but they will yet build a telescope powerful enough to allow the people of the earth to see the man in the moon piling brush on the fire.

The epitaphs which Ruskin put on his father's and mother's tombs read as follows: "Here rests from day's well-sustained burden, John James Ruskin, born in Edinburgh, May 18, 1785. He died in his home in London, March 3, 1864. He was an honest merchant, and his memory is, to all who keep it, dear and hopeful. His son, whom he loved to the uttermost and taught to speak truth, says this of him." "Here beside my father's body I have laid my mother's. Nor was dearer earth ever returned to earth, nor purer life recorded in heaven. She died December 5, 1871, aged 90 years."

Some German scientists, interested in forestry, have recently furnished information in regard to the ages of trees. They assign to the pine tree 500 and 700 years as the maximum, 425 years to the silver fir, 275 years to the larch, 245 years to the red beech, 210 to the aspen, 200 to the birch, 170 to the ash and 145 to the alder and 130 to the elm. The heart of the oak begins to rot at about the age of 300 years. The holly oak alone escapes this law, it is said, and there is in existence near Aschaffenburg, in Germany, a tree of this kind which has attained an age of 410 years.

It is said that wolves are increasing rapidly in the more unsettled parts of Kansas, and threaten to be dangerous to isolated farmers. The baby of Albert Riddle, who lives near Seneca, was playing in the yard last Sunday week when it was heard to scream. Riddle ran to the door and saw a great wolf galloping away with the baby in his mouth. He started after the wolf, calling his big greyhound, which soon overtook the savage beast and forced it to drop the child. The baby was unhurt except for a deep scratch along its back. The wolf was too much for the dog and made his escape.

When we remember that only 10 years ago the people of Uganda and Victoria Nyanza were almost unknown to the world, it is surprising to read that the missionaries there recently sold in a few weeks 4,000 reading sheets printed in the native language. They send word that they could sell 10,000 copies at once if they had them. They say the people are most anxious to acquire the art of reading, and that their eagerness for books is astonishing. "As long as we had a reading sheet or book left," writes one, "a crowd swarmed around us day and night, and hundreds were disappointed when the supply gave out."

A New Yorker, who is a member of the American Society of Psychical Research, tells a curious story that would interest his society. While in Mexico recently he dreamed that in dressing his pistol dropped from his pocket, fell butt downward to the floor, turned over so that it leaned against his ankle and exploded, shattering his leg. The dream was so vivid that he awoke with a start and recalled the whole scene. He was soon asleep again, however, and by morning he had nearly forgotten his vision. When he came to dress he found himself standing as in his dream, and as he drew on his trousers his revolver fell from the hip pocket, struck butt downward upon the tiled floor, struck a sunken tile and, turning, fired against his ankle with the muzzle pointing directly at his leg. He looked with a sort of fascination for the explosion, but it did not come and he lives now without a scar.

The Pall Mall Gazette says that last year in Great Britain was the greatest tobacco year on record. The gross revenue from this source amounted to £9,717,000, or £503,000 in excess of the previous year. This the commissioners attribute to the improved wages of the working class, but it is also worth noting that the revenue has gained and not lost by the reduction of the duty. The consumption of rum, on the other hand, has continued to increase in spite of the extra sixpence a gallon imposed last year—a fact which marks it out as a fit subject for another sixpence next year. But the alcoholic tendency of these times has not been confined to spirits; it has asserted itself in wine also—whence the commissioners, who gauge mankind by the wine and spirit test, infer that the "upper strata" also have enjoyed better pay. Tea, coffee and cocoa suggest similar reflections; indeed, a large part of the report is a writing of contemporary history by the bibulous method.

GREEN GOODS IN TOLEDO

This City and Section Flooded With Luring Circulars.

Postmaster Brown Discusses the Subject Interestingly.

Sample of the Circular Received by Mr. Fred Boice—The Green Goods Man Gets But Few Victims Here.

"The city is being literally flooded with green goods' circulars," said Postmaster Brown to a Bee yesterday. "No, I don't think the wily deceiver secures many victims in this city or section, although once in a while we hear of a man who bites."

"Have you got any of the circulars?"

"Oh, yes, they are referred to us for investigation. Here is one just received, sent to me by Mr. Fred Boice."

There are three circulars enclosed and one reads as follows:

Strictly Confidential.

My Dear Sir:—I am desirous of obtaining a good, schrewd agent in your locality to handle my "Goods." I enclose herewith a newspaper clipping which gives all the information that could be desired, and which explains itself. Thinking you are in a position to safely handle my goods, I have concluded to write you. If you don't care to invest in this enterprise I hope you will excuse the liberty I have taken in making the proposition. If you have been unsuccessful in your business, I can supply you with goods with which you can pay off all your debts and start free and clear again. You can purchase mortgages, etc. An opportunity like this to make an independent fortune has never crossed your path before and in all probability never will again as long as you live. It was never intended that one man should have millions of dollars and another nothing, so don't throw away this chance to get riches. Others have grown rich around you, no one knows how. Why not help yourself? If you have not the ready money to purchase my goods, I would consent to your taking some confidential friend in with you, provided, of course he is trustworthy and could keep a secret. You can both come on together and make the deal. However, you would be very foolish to take any one in with you if you could raise enough money yourself. If you conclude to embrace this "golden chance" and my business should suit you, it will be absolutely necessary for you to come on here and see me in person. I only deal face to face with my customers. Experience has taught me that this is the safest and most satisfactory way for both. When you meet me you see what you are buying and I see who I am dealing with, consequently we both feel better satisfied. I do not ask nor expect to be paid one cent until you have examined my entire stock, select what you want, and the goods are in your possession. You must carry the goods away with you, and if you desire it I will see you safely out of the city. I can't consent to sending goods either by express or mail. I know it is quite a journey for you to make, but look at the immense profits to be made with no risk whatever, and as far as expenses are concerned I always make a liberal allowance to cover them. Make up your mind to come on at once. I know you will always look back at your trip to see me with pleasure and profit. My goods are first-class in every particular, and as fine as the newspaper article speaks of. Your own good sense should tell you I can have no object in misrepresenting the quality of my stock and bringing you on here on a fool's errand, for I ask no money in advance, and trade only on the terms above mentioned, namely, don't ask nor expect to be paid one cent until you have examined my entire stock (consisting of hundreds of thousands of dollars,) select what you want, and the goods are in your possession. My prices are as follows: Three hundred and fifty dollars buys four thousand dollars in my goods; five hundred dollars buys seventy-five hundred dollars; six hundred and fifty dollars buys thirteen thousand five hundred dollars, and one thousand dollars buys twenty-eight thousand dollars. The more you invest the cheaper you get the goods. Three hundred and fifty dollars worth is positively the smallest amount I will sell under any consideration, as I won't do a retail business, it would let too many into the secret. If you will invest six hundred and fifty or one thousand dollars, I will agree to give you the exclusive state right. Now, if you wish to do business with me you must obey the following instructions, and do only as I tell you:

First—Don't as long as you live ever write me a letter; if you do I shall refuse to receive it, and furthermore, all business relations between us will end. Don't forget this, please, and remember I mean exactly what I say.

Second—If you wish to come on here and see me, send a telegram, a copy of which is herein enclosed; send this telegram as it reads, and is signed on enclosed slip. Remember, send no letters; telegrams only received.

Third—On receipt of your telegram I will send you full instructions how to meet me and what hotel to stop at, then no mistake will be made in finding me. Don't think of coming on to meet me without first telegraphing me for instructions, which be sure to follow.

In conclusion I wish to say if you cannot come on here or have not three hundred and fifty dollars to invest, simply let the matter drop until you hear from me again.

Now allow me once more to caution you not to write letters. You must be guided by my advice; if you do, you are bound to succeed. No such thing as fail. Act square; be true and honorable; do me no harm, and you will never regret it. You can make money faster and easier by dealing in my goods than ever dreamed of before in your life.

Others profess to have these goods but I tell you candidly no one can furnish you the goods, same quality as my stock. You are at liberty to take my word or not for this, but if I find you are disposed to write or telegraph any and every one who may offer you these goods, I don't want to trade with you. I shall send other letters to you so if you do not do as I ask, and open correspondence with others, I am liable to know it and won't trade with you under any consideration.

Yours very truly, in honor and confidence,

The second reads as follows:

If you wish to come and see me send the following telegram. I shall understand it and will send you full instructions how I can be found, but distinctly understand I mean exactly what I say, under no consideration send me a letter for I positively won't receive it. In forwarding this telegram remember no one excepting you and I know its meaning, so have no fear about sending it.

Copy of Telegram You Are to Send. J. C. Pond, 26 Cortlandt street, New York, N. Y.:

Lots are sold.

Sign your name and postoffice address.

I will send you full instructions on receipt of above telegram, where and how you can meet me at my headquarters. I only receive my telegrams at this address, but transact business elsewhere. Never send night telegrams. Send your messages in the morning between 8 and 12 o'clock if possible.

You will please remember to pay charges on telegrams, as I don't wish them sent in any other way, and won't receive them unless they ther are prepaid. It attracts attention, besides I make allowance in goods to cover expenses, so it costs you nothing.

Don't fail to prepay all charges on messages.

Be sure to send your telegrams by the Western Union Telegraph company.

Here is an extract from the alleged newspaper clipping: For instance, as the present register of the treasury, said today, no precaution whatever is taken to prevent the duplication of bonds or treasury notes should the plates fall into dishonest hands, and he says the government has paid millions of dollars in the redemption of bonds and notes which have been taken from the true plates. In 1871 duplicates of coupons on bonds amount were discovered, and they bore the signature of Jay Cooke & Co., they were paid by the government. These coupons were undoubtedly taken from the true plates. A record is kept of the redemption of bonds by number and designation, and of their cancellation, but no record is kept of greenback notes, consequently, there is no way to prevent the redemption of any number of copies of the same bank note.

When a private bank contracts for the printing of its notes, the contractor is made responsible for any duplication, and if a duplicate is discovered the contractor is to pay for it. But the government has no recourse. The present register suggests that the administration shall issue a new series of notes, with all the modern improvements as to paper, style, and form, and precautions similar to that adopted by private bankers against duplication should be taken.

"The 'greengoods' man is very particular as to the movements of a would-be patron," Mr. Brown continued, when the reporter had finished reading the documents. "For instance, he secures a patron in Toledo, a circular is received, giving very full particulars as to how the intended victim shall go to New York. He leaves the Union depot at a specified hour on a certain train. He will be obliged to leave the train twice, say at Cleveland and Buffalo, and while there wire to New York a specified dispatch. At both of these places the 'green goods' man has an accomplice who notes his man and wires a full description of him to New York. Upon reaching New York he goes to a specified hotel by a certain route, and when scarcely lodged in his room at the hotel he meets the 'green goods' man and then—well, it is an old, old story. The victim returns home a poorer though wiser man."

THE CHANLER "PARIS PRIZE."

Mr. Chanler desires to be known in the world as somebody more than "the husband of the story writer, Amelie Reeves." He offered a prize to those artists whose work, in the judgment of judges were entitled to such distinction, the same to consist of means to place them in an art school in Paris for a term of years. The lucky contestants must send home at the end of each year, specimens of his or her work, vouched for by the master of the school. At the end of five years the student will be required to return to Boston and teach, gratuitously, twice a week for two years, a class selected by the jury (which is not the commission of control). The first mentioned consists of Boston patrons and artists; the commission to take charge of the students on the other side is made up of the following distinguished artists: Messrs. J. L. Gerome, Puvis de Chavannes, Carolus Duran, L. Bonnat, P. A. J. Dagnan Bouveret and Benjamin Constant.

This commission will meet twice a week and report to the home jury the progress of the students over there.

The scheme is an admirable one for the spread of art education in this country. The decision of the judges is to be given October 15, proximo, and the fortunate prize winners will at once set sail for the art center of the old world.

BEATS THE DAYS OF '49.

The Great Scramble for Wealth Through Real Estate in the Northwest.

"The days of the Forty-niners in California never witnessed a more remarkable scramble for wealth than has been seen in the great northwst during the last few years."

The speaker was ex-Congressman Calkins, formerly from Indiana, once a republican candidate for governor of that state. He retired from public life a poor man, and began his legal pratice again at the bottom. Going out to Washington territory on a tour of recreation, he was so struck with the climate and possibilities of the country that he sent for wife and family, and did not even return to Indianapolis to close up his business. He was afterward appointed associate justice of the supreme court of the territory. In the meantime he had made $100,000 in two years in real estate.

"The fortunes made in California," continued Judge Calkins, "in 1849 out of gold would not compare with what has been made out of real estate in our state in the same space of time. I know of a case where a single piece of property changed hands 19 times in a day, and every transfer saw a good, sound profit. There were numerous instances of from $10,000 to $50,000 being cleared in a day, often without a dollar being put up on the original purchase. I say 'were' because that time has gone by now. Buying and selling real estate on margins in that country has practically ceased. At that time, however, a man could go into the market and buy and sell on a 10 per cent. margin, the same as you can buy stocks in New York. There was young Wallace, you know, who married a daughter of Chief Justice Fuller last winter; he and a clerk named Baker bought a tract of land near town, platted it and put it on the market at once. They paid $200 an acre for it—they got $2,000 an acre. Both men are now rich. The syndicate of which I was a member purchased a suitable piece of land on the sound and laid off a town. We built a splendid wharf for steamers the first thing. We sold all the town lots in less than no time. There wasn't a house there two years ago—now there is a thriving town of over 2,000 inhabitants. The city of Tacoma is really of but about six years' growth, and it has now 51,000 inhabitants. And, mind you, the city is not the sort of a growth such a phenomenal place would have been 50 years ago, but a city of modern architecture, substantial, elegant.

"Where did all the money come from? New York, mostly. Men on Wall street bought and sold property they never saw, and they did the business by wire. Then the climate is lovely, the mercury never rising above 76 degrees in summer, nor falling lower than 20 degrees above zero in winter.

"Politics? No politics out there. I never saw so little interest manifested in political matters. It's been all money, money, money."—New York Herald.

GROW IN GRACE.

Dr. Fish's First Text at St. John's Yesterday.

Men May Grow Spiritually As Well As Physical y.

Nature Has the Power of Growth and Expansion—Splendid Impression Made by the New Pastor.

St. John's M. E. church on Magnolia street was filled by a splendid audience yesterday morning, which gathered to listen to the first sermon of the new pastor, Dr. Andrew J. Fish.

The new minister made a very favorable impression on the congregation. The sermon was only a brief one, but it was of that sort which pleases, eloquent, convincing, and thoroughly interesting.

Dr. Fish speaks rather rapidly, using neither notes nor manuscript. His voice is clear and resonant, and his articulation absolutely perfect. The attention of his hearers yesterday was riveted from the time the first word fell from his lips until the close. His sermon was substantially as follows:

"I know you do not desire to hear a lengthy discourse this morning, and therefore I shall be brief. At the close I shall be pleased to take you by the hand about this altar, where God dwells.

"'Grow in Grace.' Second Peter, 3-18.

"God's chemistry is wonderful and past comprehension. From the different elements, from the bright beams of the sun, the gentle rain and dew, and the moist earth, he selects that fitted to His purpose, and builds up a stalk, and on this stalk grows a beautiful flower which we look upon and rejoice. He takes an infant in the same manner—a prattling, innocent babe in the cradle, and builds him up into a grand manhood.

"It is not difficult for man to grow. Peter knew this, and hence his admonition, 'grow.' So it is with Christians. They are always growing, increasing in grace and power, and gradually attaining that degree of perfection so necessary. This fabric of ours is a wonderful affair. I am at a loss when I preach about the mind and when I preach about the body. I know all the elementary substances, and where their hiding places are, but the body is so mysteriously constructed and there is so much in it, that after all we know but little. At best we can talk of the different grades of growth. When the bright and glorious sun pours his rays upon the earth he pierces its surface, it opens, perhaps, imperceptibly, but room is made for more rays. Look at the apple on the tree. The sun's rays fall upon it and about it and pierces the rind with their ripening influence. This piercing makes room for more, and the bright gleams keep kissing the golden fruit, until it is ripe, has attained perfection. So it is in national life. A nation builds up in grandeur and power, until weaker nations succumb to it, and in turn gives way to a stronger one. As with nations, so with social and so with spiritual life.

"If man grows, the way is opened for still greater growth. Gradually he will come higher, know more of good and accomplish more for the upbuilding of the kingdom of Christ upon earth. A young man will by steps approach the idea that he has a saviour. By and by he will believe that Jesus loves him, and he will after a while say there is no limit to this love, growing steadily upward, a seed in the beginning, a stalk now.

"We begin with the A B C of the Christian life, and we grow and expand and move on to realms of glory. In this process of growing we absorb things which we come in contact with. A little shrub grows by reason of the elements surrounding it. The heat of the sun falls upon it, and the elements of the atmosphere so essential goes to it and it lays hold of these things and absorbs them, and so goes on to perfection. Just so in spiritual life. Take care! You have an influence on things about you, and if the soul takes in the good things about, it will grow and develop, but beware of the bad. Some plants give out the most beautiful fragrance, and the degree of this perfume, depends upon what things the plant has absorbed and gathered. They reach out and lay hold of invisible things. Some of them send forth their sweet perfume, while others possess all the glorious and golden tints of the rain bow.

"So with man. Some send out good, and others bad.

"How man can be lifted up and stand if he only absorbs the good things with which he comes in contact; if he reaches forth and lays hold of good and shuns the bad!

"Men say, 'I am the victim of surroundings,' and he will go down. That is not true. No man ever goes down because of his surroundings. The sweetest smelling flowers grow among weeds. Man goes down and is lost because he only takes in the bad things around him. Be careful. Seize only the elements of good conduct and true manhood. Lay hold of these and you will grow and be lifted up and be more like God.

"In this matter of growth you will notice that there is variety. Here grows a stalk from which will shoot a beautiful flower. Here by its side a bunch of wild grass. Another will be as beautiful as if kissed by the lips of angels, while in one by its side no beauty can be seen. So in the Christian life there is variety. It depends largely upon us and how we work. A lady said to me since I came to Toledo, 'Preachers are born, and not made.' This is only half true. They are born and then they are made and perfected.

"Here is a father and son. The father will say that the boy must be a statesman. Then the boy will catch the inspiration', and he will go onward and upward to his greater destiny. So in this matter of growing spiritually—what God can use us best for he has us do.

"We do things by reason of a force within us. A warrior is a warrior because of his force of fighting, a musician because of his force for music, a business man because of his force for business, a preacher because of his force for preaching. We have a variety in this life and in its growing.

"A grain of corn fell to the earth. The sun kissed it and the warm rain fell upon it. The earth nourished it until it burst forth a thing of life. It lifted up its tiny head and said 'Good morning' to the plants and trees, but they said 'You are a stranger, we know you not,' but the plant goes on growing and developing, until it is ripened and the fruit of its growth is gathered.

"Save us from all bigotry and narrowness and let us follow the word. God says grow. Do all you can. In different places in his word he says grow, grow, grow. He appeals to us and we ought to be always looking to him. Take in all the good things about you.

"Everything belongs to God, but he asks us to take it.

In conclusion let me say that man gets stronger by growing. The little acorn falls to the earth, and by and by will be a great oak, one of the monarchs of the woods. When it is young the winds will blow and the storm will rage, and the little oak will bow its head and kiss the earth as if to say, 'Let me sleep on thy bosom.' By and by it will rear its head toward the sky, and grow strong by looking upward, until it becomes a great tree, and then the winds sigh and surge and blow through its branches in vain. It has secured strength by growing.

"So it is in the Christian life. At first man is afraid, but he goes on and grows in grace. He looks for strength from on high, and finally by growing gradually he becomes strong, and he says, 'I am not so much afraid as I was at first.' 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,' 'I know that I am a son of God.' He is yet anchored to earth, but his soul has grappled with the better things. This is needful. Jesus said, 'Look at the lilies. They toil not, neither do they spin, and yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.' Look how they grow, these lilies that Jesus spoke of. Up there in Palestine, on the barren mountains, and on the rocks and among the briars, they rear their beautiful heads in that wonderful land. They lay hold and are aided in their growth by the good things about them.

"So in Christian life. Growing will help you to build a grand life which God will approve. You will not lose your identity by this growing process, by taking in the things about you.

"Bishop Newman said in this church that the greatest word in our language was duty, but love is the groundwork of duty. A mother loves her son and will go to the brink of the grave for him, and so will we when we love God. We will then do our duty fearlessly. It is second nature then for us to do our duty, and we will be lifted up until we become like God and his angels.

"The question will come after a while, 'How can I feel springing up within me everlasting life? How can I lose my sins and be washed clean?' He says we must lay hold of the things which are good, and then we will be lifted up into all the possibilities of his being. God has something grander for you than groping along through the darkness of this world. If we grasp what is offered us we can attain grander knowledge, and can say like Job, 'I know that my Redeemer liveth.' What a wonderful uplifting! Far above the things about you and of the earth. By and by you can say with St. Paul, 'There is a house not built with hands, eternal in the heavens.'

"I know how we grow physically, but I do not know how we grow spiritually. I do know, however, that when this flesh is gone we will have a new life in a building not made with hands. Do not undervalue all that God may do for you when you kneel at his feet. Glory for all that, but in addition he wants us to step out and lay hold of things about us so that we may grow and be lifted up into a grander destiny.

"Lord, give us such a spirit as this, so that we may take in all the good things and fit ourselves for all the glory and all the grandeur of immortal life."

REV. G. H. PRIDDY

Assumes Charge of the Monroe Street M. E. Church.

The congregation of the Auburndale M. E. church listened to the initial sermon of their new pastor, Rev. G. H. Priddy, yesterday morning.

After the opening services Rev. Priddy greeted his charge in a short address. He spoke of the surprise occasioned by the act of the conference in assigning him to the charge of the Auburndale congregation, pleasant surprise to himself, as well as unexpected by his late charge. He spoke of the sorrow manifested at the sudden and unlooked-for severing of the pleasant relations and co-operation in the work of God, and of the grief and pain of parting. He gave a brief sketch of a Methodist minister's life and work, stating that it was not without its hardships and discouragements, but the reward of associating with people working and living in the faith of God and to have the friendship, confidence and respect of men in business life fully compensated all difficulties.

He announced that for his first sermon he had selected "Prayer" as the subject, and his text, the sixth verse of the sixth chapter of Matthew.

"Prayer," he said, "was a divinely appointed means of man's approach to God." He then gave an interesting and intelligent history of prayer, infusing into it bright sketches, good morals, scriptural illustrations that showed the speaker's broad views and fertile resources. He spoke of prayer in public and prayer in private, and that Christ would hear and recognize a petition appealed by an earnest one, from the darkest corner of his closet as well as in public. He said there were times when man wanted to be alone, when he wanted no eyes but God's to see him, no other ears to hear him; that as in this life we have secrets, that we would not betray to the public, but intrust to some dear and devoted friend in confidence.

Mr. Priddy explained that it was not necessary for a man to possess a closet, but to open the door of his heart and invite Him, the ruler of the world, to enter, then close the door and in the secret chamber of the heart seek communion with God.

The sermon, though plain, was presented in a most entertaining and instructive manner, and was greatly appreciated by those who heard it.

THE GERM THEORY.

Within the past few years a new theory of disease has arisen with the Medical profession, known as the GERM THEORY, which has developed into a distinct branch of science, called Bacteriology. According to this Theory, all endemic, epidemic and contagious diseases are produced by minute infecting germs or microbes (micro-organisms) peculiar to each disease, which enter the system as mentioned in our treatise, page 12, under the heading "WHAT IS BLOOD POISON?"

It has heretofore been held that the unbroken skin presents an impenetrable barrier against the exit of these microscopic germs (micrococci, bacilli, etc.) when they have once found their way into the system, and as it has been demonstrated that a remedy which would destroy these germs would also kill the patient, it has been a great want of the profession to know just how to treat the disease brought on by these microbes. But recent investigations in this branch of science, by Prof. Von Bumer-Zurick, as reported to the Congress of Surgeons at Berlin, and confirmed by a report of Prof. Eiselberger, of Vienna, show that these germs can be expelled from the system through the pores of the skin. It was demonstrated clearly that these germs can pass, do pass, and can be forced to pass from the blood, and from the tissues through the healthy skin to the surface of the body and thus relieve the system of disease.

To prove this Theory, experiments were made with two men, with a horse, a dog, and a hog, six times in a week—and in every instance the germs or microbes were found in the perspiration, showing that they had been eliminated through the skin.

Now, as SWIFT'S SPECIFIC has for about sixty years been relieving humanity of disease in just that way, we think we can but add the result of these experiments to the thousands of testimonials which we already have. S. S. S. has been for more than half a century forcing out these germs, or pathogenic microbes, from the blood and tissues, thus bringing health and happiness to thousands, and it is a part of science at this late day to corroborate our Theory and show just how it is done.

We claim, then—and not only claim, but prove by these reliable witnesses—that SWIFT'S SPECIFIC forces out these germs of poison; and it does more than that, it forces out the poison itself after the body has been infected and polluted with it. For instance, in the disease of Scrofula, if there should be an ulcer or a sore, the poison will be forced out through that sore or ulcer, and the germs will be forced out through the pores of the skin; and it is the same way with any other infection—when there are no sores or ulcers the germs are forced out through the skin which sometimes causes redness and a rash, and even swelling, as mentioned in the general directions.

CHEATING IN HORSE BLANKETS

Nearly every pattern of 5/A Horse Blanket is imitated in color and style. In most cases the imitation looks just as good as the genuine, but it hasn't the warp threads, and so lacks strength, and while it sells for only a little less than the genuine it isn't worth one-half as much. The fact that 5/A Horse Blankets are copied is strong evidence that they are THE STANDARD, and every buyer should see that the 5/A trade mark is sewed on the inside of the Blanket.

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 468,767 bu. in excess of the corresponding Monday in 1890.

The export clearances Saturday at four Atlantic ports were 314,198 bu. of wheat and flour to an aggregate of 350,000 bu. Exports of corn, 245,598 bu.

London market as reported herein is firm for wheat and corn. Wheat held higher. Liverpool dull.

The visible supply of wheat increased last week 804,000 bu. Corn decreased 1,340,000 bu. Oats increased 384,000 bu. In the corresponding week in 1890 wheat increased 229,000 bu, corn increased 92,162 bu and oats decreased 98,754 bu.

The weather crop bulletin reports seeding retarded by the long drouth in the winter wheat states.

Circulation.

The United States treasury department October 2 reports the population of the United States at 64,446,000. Money circulation per capita, $23.75. Total circulation October 1, 1891, $1,530,682,036. Increase since October 1, 1890, $32,609,327.

German Sugar.

In the year ending June 30, 1889, we imported from Germany in beet sugar $5,814,407, and in 1890 $16,031,131.

India and Russia Exports.

Mr. Donnelly and his associate advisors of farmers to hold their wheat do not seem to consider two points bearing upon the question. First, that whatever the ultimate shortage in crops abroad there may be, each country has more or less of its home-grown grain, which will now come to market, forming an important element in the supply, and reducing the demand for foreign grain.

The second is, that India has already shipped 35,000,000 bu. of wheat since April 1, including 1,420,000 bu. last week. North Russia and Black Sea ports exported in the six weeks ending September 5, 9,120,000 bu., and until the emperor forbids exportation the wheat will continue to come.

Seed Market.

The receipts of this commodity at Toledo last week were 6,424 bags, shipments 1,570 bags. In the corresponding week in 1890 the receipts were 5,396 bags, shipments 2,598 bags. Since September 1, the receipts have been 18,764 bags, and the shipments 3,930 bags.

The exports from New York for the week ending September 26, were 978 bags, and since January 1 to September 26, 44,870 bags, compared with 65,975 bags in the corresponding period in 1890.

Flax Seed at Chicago.—Arrivals were smaller and shipments liberal; 142 cars received, 192,412 bu taken out and vessel room for 60,000 bu secured. There was a good cash demand. Carriers were the principal buyers. It was suggested that they sold some lots for export recently and were replenishing. The speculative market was very quiet. The feeling all round was firmer. Cash Flax advanced 1c, with No. 1 sales at 92c early to 92 1-2@93c later, closing at 93c and some special location sold at 93 1-2c. Rejected at 90 1-2c.

Markets by Telegraph.

London, Oct. 5.—1 p. m.—Wheat cargoes off coast at opening and steady; maize nothing offering. Wheat and maize cargoes on passage and for shipment steady.

Mark Lane.—Wheat at opening firmly held; maize firm. Red winter wheat for prompt shipment, 39s. Red winter wheat for present and following month, 38s 9d. English country markets quiet; French quiet and steady. Weather cooler and fine.

Liverpool, Oct. 5.—1 p. m.—Wheat market dull, demand poor, holders offer moderately. American mixed corn quiet, demand poor. Wheat and corn off const demand poor.

Private cables make Liverpool 1 penny lower. The rain descended yesterday quite freely in Ohio and Indiana. The rumor is revived, that France will reduce duty on wheat. What if she does? It will not help prices here, but lower it in France. The visible supply of wheat increased only about half as much as many dealers expected.

The wheat markets of this country opened about 1-2c lower, and the decline was continued to 1c to 1 1-4c.

Corn has been especially weak all day and has declined.

In New York October wheat closed only 1-8c lower; December, 7-8c lower. October corn 1 7-8c and November 2c lower.

In Chicago December wheat closed 3-4c lower. October corn 1 1-8c, and October oats 1-4c lower.

In Toledo.—The trading in wheat futures has been very light and the market without interesting events of any sort. On the call December sold at $1 01 After the call it sold at $1 01 to $1 01 3-8 and closed at $1 01, a loss of 3-4c. May sold at $1 07 3-8 and closed at 1-4c, a loss of 3-4c.

Cash wheat was in fair request. Opened 1c lower and gained 1-4c: No. 2 soft at 98 to 98 1-4c, a loss of 3 1-4c; No. 3 soft 94 1-2 to 94c. Rejected No. 1 at 83c.

Corn, no trading; No. 2 55c; oats No. 2, 29c bid; No. 2 white at 31c. Rye, 1-2c lower; No. 2 at 87 1-2c.; No. 3 at 83 1-2c. Cloversed about 5c lower; prime for cash at $4.45 and to arrive; Oct. $4.44 1-2 to $4.45; Dec. $4.50; No. 2 at $4.10 to $4.20.

MAKING HOGS PRODUCE PEPSIN

After Their Appetites Are Whetted by a Trick They Are Killed.

The pepsin sold in the drug stores is the veritable product of an animal stomach, and generally of the stomach of the hog. One factory in New York has the oddest method of preparing the article that ever entered into the human mind, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. A number of perfectly healthy hogs are fattened for market, and for 36 hours before killing time are deprived of all food, not even being allowed water. Then the trough from which they are accustomed to eat is covered with strong wire netting, and the most appetizing slops and hog delicacies, smoking hot, are poured into the trough.

The fumes ascend with grateful fragrance to the porcine nostrils, the hogs all run to the trough and stand over it ravenous with hunger, squealing and fighting with each other for a chance to get at the slops. The iron netting prevents them from hauling the food, and while they are still thinking about the matter they are killed, and their stomachs being taken out are found perfectly full of gastric juice, from which the pepsin is prepared. Now, if it was not the hog's imagination that made the gastric juice flow into his stomach in anticipation of a feast, what was it?

TEACHING "VON" ENGLISH,

So That He Could Vote the Party Ticket.

A Theological Student Engaged to Do the Job—"Von" Learned Rapidly Enough to Make the Politicians Swear.

After settling several grave problems of state over a down-town mahogany one afternoon last week, a few gentlemen so influential in Massachusetts politics that their opponents would all take fright if it were known that their heads had been lately together—after boxing the compass on the ship of state drifted into story telling.

At least one of the stories they told is good enough for the types. The joke in this story is on the man who told it, and he began by saying that it was of an evening several years ago that, with a certain theological student, who has since prospered in material things, he strolled into the political headquarters in the suburban town where they lived.

On entering they found the only occupant of the room to be a well-known local character, who rejoiced in the high-sounding appelation of Von Moltke.

"Von," as his nickname had come to be abbreviated, was about 20 years of age, and earned his living by selling lobsters, which he wheeled about town in a hand barrow.

On this particular evening he presented a somewhat striking and picturesque appearance, as he sat at a table gazing intently at a newspaper, which he held upside down, vainly endeavoring to give the impression that he could read.

A tuft of hair peeped out of the crown of a wide sombrero, with which his head was adorned. The accumulated perspiration and dirt of many weeks had disclosed his unbleached cotton shirt. A vest would interfere with freedom of action, and he scorned such an article of apparel as a useless encumbrance.

A frock coat, several sizes too large for him, and with a part of the skirt torn away, encircled his form, while his trousers which were turned up around the bottoms several inches, were kept in place by codline which he wore as suspenders. Shoes, through which his stockingless feet peeped here and there, and like his trousers very much too long, completed his outfit.

"Good evenin', gentlemen," he said, as the visitors seated themselves, "I thought I would drop in and read a few minutes."

"But, Von," replied the politician kindly, "you will find it very hard to read in that way, don't you see you have your paper upside down?"

The weather-beaten face of the young man flushed a deep crimson, and there were tears in his eyes, as he impatiently flung the paper from him and exclaimed:

"Thar! I knowed it. I knowed it! Everybody finds it out. It makes me so shamed w'en I see the other fellers readin', and think that I can't!"

"Would you like to learn to read?" quickly asked the student, whose sympathies were thoroughly excited.

"Yes, sir, I would," was the reply. "Here I am almost 21 years old and can't read nothin'. I can figger a little, and nobody can't cheat me that way. An' I've got more money than most of the lads, but w'en it comes to readin' they can all beat me."

The student saw his opportunity and was quick to improve it.

"Von," he said, "if you will leave off drinking, and resolve to lead a better life, I will do all in my power to help you. I have a good suit of clothes, very little worn, which will just about fit you, at my boarding house, and I will give them to you if you will promise to wear them and keep yourself clean."

Von was profuse in his promises to do better and try and make a man of himself. This pleased the student, and Von was assured that he should have clothes on the following evening.

"Besides," said the generous theologue, as the lobsterman was about to leave the room, "though I shall be unable to take the time to teach you to read myself, as I do not expect to be about here long, I feel sure that my friend will gladly undertake it."

Though somewhat taken back by the concluding sentence, the politician seeing, as he thought, a possible chance to make a voter for his party, deliberated for a moment, and then, to Von's evident delight, consented to take the part of school master.

No sooner had the agreement been made than the politician found himself in a somewhat embarrassing situation. There appeared to be no place that could be utilized as a school room where Von would be safe from the intrusion of inquisitive and fun-loving visitors.

To take him home was out of the question. The ladies of the family would listen to no suggestion of the kind. Von had been a familiar and offensive sight to them all their lives, and they had no faith in his professions of reform.

Besides, they declared that he would not keep himself clean, no matter what the inducement might be.

At length, after some hesitation, a kind-hearted storekeeper consented to allow the use of his back shop on certain evenings of the week.

The evening of the first lesson arrived, and with it "Von," promptly at the appointed hour. And what a transformation. He was really a good-looking young fellow. His skin was as white as hard soap and a plentiful application of water could make it.

He was neatly, yes, fashionably dressed in a full suit, from hat to shoes, which the generous student had given him. Even the collar and necktie had not been forgotten, while the polished bosom of a laundered shirt shone resplendent beneath his low cut vest.

In fact, for the first time in his life, Von had the appearance of a gentleman.

And he had come in readiness to go to work. A bright new primer which he produced from under his coat evinced the fact that he was ready to be initiated into the mysteries of A. B. C.

A few moments after his arrival the student put in an appearance. Gazing in admiration upon his protege, he exclaimed:

"Why, Von, I hardly knew you! Give us your hand, old fellow. You look as well as anybody now."

Then, turning to his friend, he said, thoughtfully, "I really think I ought to divide the time with you. He has been so sadly neglected all his life that it seems a pity he should not receive some religious instruction. Suppose I talk with him a half hour or so? You will have all the rest of the evening.

After some demurring on the part of the amateur schoolmaster the arrangement was acceded to and the student began:

"Von, do you ever think of your Heavenly Father?"

"No; he was a—and I'm—glad he's dead."

"I don't mean your earthly father. I mean God, who is so good and kind to all of us."

"Wot, Mr. C——, you don't believe ther's a God, do you?"

"I certainly do, Von, don't you?"

"No, I don't. Do you suppose if they was a God he'd a let us children suffered way we have, sleepin' in a garret with a hole in the roof, lettin' in the cold an' snow an' rain? Kicked and cuffed about by everybody. Half starved. Blamed fer everythin' that was done whether we done it or not. I've been arrested many a time by the p'lice w'en I wasn't guilty o' doin' nothin':

"Ef I was in a crowd an' anythin' went wrong, I was the one to be picked on, even w'en I hadn't done nothin'. An' I've even been sent to the reform school cos nobody would believe me w'en I said it was somebody else, and not me that did the stealin'. An' I told the truth, too.

"No, Mr. C——, w'en I've seen the other children about town dressed in warm clothes, w'en I was shiverin' with cold, and knowed that they had a good home and plenty to eat, while I had to go most naked, an' hungry half the time, alwus thought there could be no God, or it wouldn't be so. Oh, no, I know very well they ain't no God."

The poor fellow's eyes were suffused with tears, and the student, after soothing him with expressions of sympathy, concluded to let the religious part of his instruction go until some more favorable opportunity.

For a time Von appeared regularly on the evenings appointed, and seemed to take great interest in his studies, though he progressed very slowly.

By degrees, however, he relapsed into his former life. He was absent several evenings, and to the horror of his instructor, when he did appear, he was dressed in his old clothes, and was as dirty as ever.

"Why, Von," exclaimed the teacher, "what in the world have you done with the suit Mr. C—— gave you?"

"Lent 'em."

"Lent them! To whom?"

"Oh, a feller wanted 'em to git married in, and I let him have 'em. But I've got part of the clothes on."

"No, you haven't, Von. I don't see a single thing that Mr. C. gave you."

"Yes I have. I got the shirt on."

"What, that dirty shirt? Oh, no, Von, that's not the one. The shirt Mr. C. gave you had a bosom in it, and yours has none."

"Yes, it is, too. Only it buttoned in the back, and I couldn't git my hands behind thar, so I put it on hind part afore."

True enough, it was the same shirt. Nothing could induce him to wear it properly, and he wore it with the bosom on his back until it was no longer serviceable."

As time went on, a lady who had been very kind to Von on more than one occasion, thinking to encourage him, offered the use of her sitting room in the hope that the surroundings would enable him to be alone when studying, and that his progress would, therefore, be greater.

It was little use, however. Von would appear one evening with a lesson half learned, and then absent himself for a week at a time.

On a sultry night in July Von met his instructor on the street, and requested him to go to the house of the lady and hear him recite. Though it was somewhat inconvenient, and his patience was exhausted, the politician consented.

Arriving at the house, Von threw himself carelessly into a chair, and produced his book. The stench from his clothes was sickening. It pervaded the room, and even the book was odorous with the scent of decaying fish.

The teacher almost fainted, but said languidly:

"Well, Von, take the book and let me see how well you can read. Spell out the words if you can't pronounce them."

Von proceeded at once with his task.

"b-e-d, bed; l-a-r-g-e, big."

The teacher listened with amazement.

"Go on, Von," he exclaimed, as the pupil hesitated. "Let me see how well you can do."

"S-h-i-p, vessel; g-i-r-l, gal; b-o-y, boy; c-u-p—say, what does c-u-p spell?"

"Wh. Von, you certainly know that little word. What do you drink out of when you are at home?"

"Oh, yes! C-u-p—dipper."

The instructor turned pale.

"Von," he said, sadly, "the weather is getting very warm. Your intellectual exertions during the past six months entitle you to a much-needed rest. The public schools have already begun their vacation, and I think it would be well for us to take ours.

"So we will discontinue our sessions for the present, and perhaps at some future time we will begin again."

"Thar, that's just it!" whimpered Von, half crying, "just as soon as I begin to git a little learnin', you want to give it up. Well, it's the way everybody treats me, so I spose it's all right."

One branch of his education Von had not neglected. He could write his name fairly well.

After some coaxing he appeared before the board of registrars just previous to the next election, and very much to his delight succeeded in passing the simple examination required to be registered as a voter.

On election day, as his friend the politician was scanning the voting list, a member of the local committee came rushing up to him and yelled:

"Well, you are a smart man. That Von Moltke you spent six months in teaching to read has just voted the opposition ticket. I told him he was voting against you, and he said he knew it and meant to, for you undertook to teach him to read and didn't finish the job."—Boston Globe.

The many remarkable cures of catarrh effected by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is conclusive proof that this loathsome and dangerous disease is one of the blood, only needing such a searching and powerful alterative to thoroughly eradicate it.

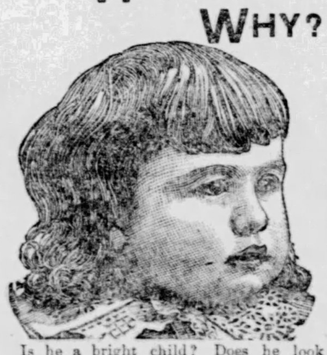
HEALTHY. HAPPY. WHY?



Is he a bright child? Does he look healthy and happy? He is bright, and he is both healthy and happy. He is the little son of Mrs. Henry T. Bowers, wife of the well-known contractor and builder, who resides in Dorchester avenue, South Boston. Mrs. Bowers has had quite an experience with her children, which experience we give in her own words, as follows:

"I have a little boy two and one-half years of age, the perfect picture of rugged health, and also a little girl of four. I attribute their good health and good temper to the use of Dr. Hand's Remedies.

I have used, as occasion required, the entire line, and have had very marked results from the Colic Cure, Cough and Croup Medicine, and the Pleasant Physic. I have never had any but good result from the use of any of them."

No mother would make a statement like the above unless she knew wholly whereof she affirmed.

A little book, illustrated, full of sense and suggestion, will be sent to any one in the land, FREE.

CLINGING TO HIS FUNDS.

A Miser Who Won't Give Up His Money.

On His Death Bed He Refuses to Disclose the Hiding Place of Seven Thousand Dollars.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 5.—Daniel McCormick, a miser, is dying in a dilapidated tenement house on Second street. He cannot live 12 hours. Around his bedside stands his friends and two relatives vainly endeavoring to persuade the old man to tell where he has hidden $7,000 that he is known to possess. McCormick is 70 years of age. For nearly 2 months he has eaten nothing and his body is so wasted that the bones almost stick through the skin. He served through the war in the Fourth regiment Missouri state militia, and several years ago received a pension with back pay amounting to $1,000. Since that time he has spent nothing and he has kept the money buried. When he was taken sick $1,000 was found inside of his underclothing.

ALBERT VICTOR IN TROUBLE

Another Scandal in London Circles.

The Suicide of the Once Handsome Lydia Miller Caused a Big Stir Abroad.

London, Oct. 5.—Mysterious press allusions have been made to a certain high personage who had intimate relations with the Gaiety actress, Lydia Miller, who recently committed suicide.

These allusions were understood to refer to Prince Albert Victor.

The coroner, the same one that hushed up the Duke of Bedford suicide, held a private inquest in the case of Lydia Miller, and refuses to allow any one to have access to the depositions.

Other sales will be held on Wednesday and Friday of this week, and promise to outdo the present rush.
